WAR BRINGS MANY RUMORS

Some of Them May Be True, But the Most of Them Are Not.

ONE IS THAT AGENTS CIRCULATE GERMS

Another That Effort is Being Made to Corner Potato Market.

Many wild and altogether unreasonable rumors are being circulated at the present time. It always happens when a country is at war. However, there may be some truth in some of them.

One report that has gained wide circulation is that the spreading of leprosy and cholera germs, the former in court plaster and the latter in stock food, is being done by agents of Germany in this country.

A report from Auburn says: "There have been court plaster agents working in Auburn recently, nicely dressed fellows, too, people whom the Auburn housewives believed looked big and strong enough to be out helping the farmers with their farm work."

Farmers are advised to purchase stock food which they know is pure and which comes from reliable stock food houses, where there would be no chance to have it loaded up with disease germs of any kind.

Another rumor is to the effect that agents are going through Allen county in an effort to buy all the potatoes possible. The purpose of it is stated, is to place these potatoes in storage, as was done last year, and then control the market, forcing the people to pay exorbitant prices, such as they have been doing for the past several months.

POLICEMAN DID NOT BRANDISH REVOLVER

Caused Stampede in Saloon by Showing His New Badge.

Police claim that men in the George Biemer saloon, East Perry street, were seeing things when they reported that Patrolman Vashon, newest officer on the force, brandished a revolver when he raided a card game in the place Saturday afternoon. Chief Leuz states that Vashon did not have a revolver with him at the time he was sent to the saloon to investigate a complaint about gambling in the place.

Vashon was told to arrest all men he caught gambling. The officer believed that money was changing hands when he saw a young man lay a bill on the table, at the rear of the saloon. The new officer stepped forward and displayed his star. There was a rush. All members of the card playing party fled, except a man who was caught in Vashon's grasp. The officer secured the money and a deck of cards from the table.

No charge could be made against the man who was taken to police headquarters by the officer as he denied gambling and Vashon could not swear that he was one who was playing at the table. George Biemer later visited police headquarters and announced that he intended to stop all card playing in his place of business. He is not thought to have had any knowledge of gambling in his saloon if money was really being passed about.

GUARD ROADS INTO BISBEE

Armed Men Patrol Thoroughfares to Keep Out the Deported Men.

MINES PREPARE TO OPERATE HEAVILY

Exiles Are in Wire Pen at Columbus, N. M., and Under Guard.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 16.—While armed civilian guards stood watch over the roads approaching this copper mining district to prevent any of the more than 100 men exiled from here last Thursday from returning, the mine operators today prepared for operating their properties on a larger scale than any time since the strike called by the I. W. U. went into effect nearly three weeks ago.

Peace officers and leaders of the citizens' association which conducted the deportation last week reported that they had no fear of further trouble; that any men who wished to work would be welcomed in Bisbee, but that they would not tolerate the return of those they termed agitators, unless they were compelled to admit them by the federal government. The mine operators also said they were satisfied with the local situation and predicted that within a few days virtually full shifts of men would be working in all the mines. Reports from Globe, Miami and Clifton-Morenci districts where strikes are in progress were that of Sunday passed quietly.

EXILES ARE GUARDED.

Columbus, N. M., July 16.—The exiles from Bisbee, Ariz., settled down today to the routine of camp life under the direction of United States soldiers in the camp established on the site of the old Mexican refugee stockade and awaited whatever action the federal authorities would take on their appeal that they be returned to Bisbee, where some of them have small businesses and where many striking miners have families. The wives of some of the men have followed them to Columbus and are permitted to converse with them through the wire enclosure. Pending the installation of shower baths, which are to be put in today, the men have been bathing in the horse trough. A barbershop also is to be established in the camp.

Summary of the Day's War News

Although the movement of the Russian infantry engaged in General Korniloff's big offensive in eastern Galicia is being hampered by bad weather the Cossacks apparently have been able to keep up their dashing tactics. This is indicated by a report from Petrograd through Rome today that the town of Dolina has been occupied by Russian forces.

If this announcement proves accurate it means an advance of more than thirty miles for the Russians since the opening of the drive south of the Dniester a week ago. The official reports have placed them nearly two-thirds of this distance from their starting point, as Kaluz, taken by Korniloff's troops last week, is some twenty miles from Stanislaw, which virtually was their place of departure.

At Kaluz the Russians were established on the westerly bank of the Dniester, whence the Austrians had not been able to drive them, although heavy attacks had been launched in the attempt. The route thence to Dolina lies along the Stanislaw-Strzy railway line. An advance here means considerable progress in the movement now under way.

Gen. von Boehme-Erdoll's army back against the Carpathians. The Rome reports, indeed, declare that this already has been accomplished.

The hard fighting that has marked the last few days along the French front in northern France still continues. Last night the Germans made a desperate attempt to regain the important observation posts they lost when the French on Saturday night took a strongly fortified position in the vicinity of Montaut and the Teton in the Champagne.

The attacking forces were able to make no impression whatever on the French positions and at Montaut they recovered only a narrow foothold on the edge of the disputed ground.

The French, in local operations, made some progress south of Alilles on the Alsace front and repulsed several strong attacks near St. Quentin and south of Corbeny.

On the British front only raiding operations and artillery and airplane activities are reported.

CARELESS LADS DIE IN AGONY BY FLAMES

Brasil, Ind., July 16.—George Blankenship, 12, of Carbon, Ind., died early today as the result of burns he received when powder he and Fred Beidell, 13, of Indianapolis, had found in an old can exploded yesterday. Beidell died last night. The boys fished the can from a pond of water. They filled their pockets and put some in an old boiler. A match was tossed into the boiler and the explosion which followed set fire to the clothing of the boys. They were burned fatally before help reached them.

MAKES ESCAPE FROM NEW COUNTY FARM

Thomas Besse, of New York State, Walks Away from the Barracks.

A young man who gave his name as Thomas Besse to officials made his escape from the new county farm Sunday afternoon shortly after dinner. Sheriff George W. Gillie was notified and Deputy Sheriff William B. Cole, aided by a party of men, searched for the man until about 11 o'clock Sunday night. No trace of him was found.

The prisoner had twenty days more to serve, being sent up from Fort Wayne on a charge of train climbing and loitering on the streets. He said he was from New York state.

He had gained the confidence of officials at the farm and had been made a trusty. At noon Sunday he was seen walking towards the woods. He did not come back and a search was immediately begun.

CAN GOODS NOW, IS FOOD RELIEF ORDER

Now is the time to can garden products as well as fruits, say food relief workers. All spare beans should be preserved. No beets should be wasted. Every garden vegetable, which cannot be used at present, should be put away for the wintry days to come.

Food Expert Gray does not think that sufficient rain has fallen to destroy later garden crops. If little more rain falls the potato crop will not be greatly injured, Gray thinks. He does not believe the story that potatoes are rotting in the ground because of the continued wet weather. Potatoes which have been removed lately are firm and healthy, he says he has found.

Learn Some French Today

TENTH LESSON PREPARED BY MME. ARCHINARD

I have seen the commissary.

J'ai vu le camp de ravitaillement.

Jay vù loh kan's duh rævèst'ayuhman's

Shall we see the group of tanks today?

Verrons-nous le groupe d'artillerie d'assaut aujourd'hui?

Vayron's noo loh group dar-lee-yuh-ree dè-sòh oh-johrdwee

Are we going to the front tomorrow?

Partèeron's noo poor loh fron's duh-man's?

Where did you win your decoration?

Où avez-vous gagné cette décoration?

Oo avay voo gan'ya set dècoràseon's?

In these lessons the English sentence appears in the first line, the French equivalent in the second and the pronunciation in the third line.

In the pronunciation key, straight lines over the letters A and U denote the long sound, as in "hate" and "dude;" curved lines over these letters denote the short sound, as in "hat" and "but;" two dots over the U indicate a sound somewhat like the German "ue," which Americans may approach by pronouncing long U and long E at the same time.

Cut out these lessons and paste them in your note book.

The purpose here is merely to give the young men who may serve with the army in France such a knowledge of French as will make them want to know and some sort of friendly intercourse with French people and soldiers possible. We attempt to make it teach the grammar of the French language.

Vandagriff and Essick Did the Friendly Act Yesterday

Chiefs Are First to Win But Black Sox Make It Even.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 16.—Just to start things out in a nice amiable manner the Fort Wayne Chiefs and Grand Rapids divided a double bill here yesterday. The visitors won the first game 5 to 2 and the Black Sox went home one better by coming back 6 to 1. Over 2,500 people saw the game, and the club has decided not to go into bankruptcy now.

In the first game Kowalski took the mound for the Chiefs and outpitched three local slubmen. Home started but he soon gave way to Slattery, who in turn was hooked in favor of Carpenter. The second game was staged a comeback and defeated Higbee, both of them being touched for nine hits.

The Chiefs got a good start in the initial game, Siegfried completing the circuit in the first inning and Breaux in the third. Both of them came in with the ball but he was left in the country into camp. In the fifth inning Siegfried hit, stole second, took third on a wild throw and trotted leisurely home when Harry Smith, the Chief's hard hitting backstop, doubled. In the meantime the locals had made one run.

Breaux looked big in the seventh inning when with one on he connected for a circuit smash and this was followed by the second Black Sox tally. Gloeckson hit in the eighth, swiped second, went to third on an out and counted on Kowalski's sacrifice fly.

The locals, with Meltzer, pitching, went into the second game with blood in their eyes. They started in the first inning and kept right on going until in the sixth they had marked up six runs. The first run was made on a double steal in which Mathes crossed the plate, Eddington taking second. Two more followed in the second, on walks, errors, sacrifices and a hit or two, and in the third the fourth run was made on a double, an out and a sacrifice fly. Nothing was done in the fourth, but the fifth and sixth each netted the locals a run, and then they decided to wait for the next day.

Hoffman singled to start the visitors in the ninth and Gloeckson followed with a big double to the fence. Brown's sacrifice fly sent in the only run for the Chiefs.

CENTRAL LEAGUE.

Springfield, O., July 16.—Coffindaffer and Haines pitched the Springfield leaders to a double win over Richmond here yesterday, 7 to 0, and 6 to 4. Both Gilbert and Young, who started for Richmond, were walloped badly. During the game Walker hit for the hundredth time this season.

Muskegon, Mich., July 16.—Peoria took the first game of a double-header yesterday, 7 to 4, while the Muskies came back, taking the second, 3 to 1. Both clubs patted the pill in the first contest but in the second Wachtel held the visitors in control.

FORMER BUSH LEAGUERS LEADING TEAMS IN FIGHT FOR AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT

Upward Dash of Indians and White Sox Shows Up Veteran Managers of Opposing Nines.

BY PAUL PURMAN.

It is very probable that two bush league managers will fight it out for honors in the American league. Clarence Rowland, manager of the White Sox, has his team whipped into shape to play consistent baseball. Lee Fohl, of Cleveland, has started a drive toward the top of the heap—unless accidents or unforeseen complications intervene. It will be interesting to see these two bushers fighting it out in the stirring baseball days of September. It would be a decisive argument against the old adage that no smart baseball comes from the minors. Neither Rowland nor Fohl had any major league experience to speak of before they took charge of the teams they now lead.

Clarence Rowland and two of the stars helping him in his pennant drive—Ray Schalk (left) and "Happy" Felsch.

Rowland's early career was confined almost entirely to some minor league teams in Iowa, and Fohl managed teams in Akron and New England. Both were successful enough in the minor leagues, but were regarded as doubtful experiments when they took charge of the clubs in the majors. Rumor deprived each of his job time without number, but now they seem to be coming into their own.

The third week of Patterson-Fletcher's July sale begins tomorrow. The values are remarkable when you consider the daily advance of cotton and woolen fabrics. In many instances they are selling goods for less than wholesaler's price today.

Hold Records for Consecutive Games

Eddie Collins, Chicago star second-sacker, and George Burns, of the Giants, who have now taken part in almost 400 consecutive contests. Collins is eight games ahead, but both strings are unbroken.

Gleich, being one of the five Chiefs who have been hitting above the .250 mark, has been released. Harry Smith better cut down his sticking somewhat, or he's liable to find himself without a job.

After about two more changes are made in the line-up of Vandagriff's club, we'll have to start all over getting acquainted with the boys. Ty Cobb can't seem to hold up the Tigers alone. Unless he tries a hand at pitching, perhaps.

Jess Willard is more interested in the round ring than the square one, just now.

Jimmy Callahan would sentence the kaiser to manage the Pirates under present ownership. But Wilhelm would want to be umpire, too, and President Tener couldn't stand it.

The "Three Eye" players have been released just in time to be drafted. But it's unfair. The umpires got jobs in other leagues before they had time to look around.

The French have a way of stopping mules from hee-hawing. Umpires would like to use it on some managers and players.

It's queer the Reds can go right on winning even when they're in the first division.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES OPENED AT CLEVELAND

Nearly Three Hundred of World's Fastest Harness Horses Entered.

Cleveland, O., July 16.—The Grand Circuit races of the season of 1917 opened at the North Randall track today when the blast of a bugle announced the call for the 2:10 trot.

While there have been heavy rains during the past week, it is said the track is in good condition and the entries comprise some of the fastest trotters and pacers of the harness race world. Nearly 300 horses are entered.

The races will continue through Friday unless rain causes a postponement. Interest today was divided between the first division of the "Forest City" two-year-olds, trotting, two heats, $2,500 and the 2:10 pacing, "The Edwards" three heats, $3,000.

The other events on today's card are the 2:11 trotting, three heats, $1,200, and the 2:05 pacing, three heats, $1,200.

Seventeen two-year-old colts are eligible to start in the "Forest City," one of the big features of the meeting and the race will feature two divisions.

"The Fasig" 2:19 trot for three-year-olds has twenty-two eligibles and will also be split into two sections.

By defeating the Turners while the Pennsylvania club was winning from the General Electric, the Bowsers club strengthened its hold on the lead in the Fort Wayne Industrial league Saturday afternoon. The game was the first of a double bill in which the leaders won 6 to 3, and the Railroaders were high 6 to 3. The Pennsy and G. E. clubs switched places in the standing, the former going into second place, two games behind the leaders.

The Bowsers-Turners game was close all the way and not until the seventh inning did the winners get the runs which put them in the lead. Even then the game was not cinched and the gym men kept the Bowsers on their toes all the way to the final out. Oestermeier opposed Grimes on the mound.

In the second game Lankenau started for the G. E. but he had trouble pitching to Hines and finally gave way to Archibald after whiffing ten men in less than six innings. The four runs by the Railroaders in the third tied the game. The scores:

The Cause of Constipation.
Constipation is usually due to a lack of water in the system. To effect a cure you must take more water into the system. It may be months, however, before this has any appreciable effect on the bowels, but when persisted in and fruits and vegetables containing water are eaten freely, the condition may be overcome. In the meantime use the mildest laxative obtainable and take only enough to produce the desired effect. Chamberlain's Tablets are one of the best. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect.—Advertisement.

Catarrrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc.

MACHINE GUN MODERN ARM? NEVER!

COL. DOOLEY EXPLAINING WORKINGS OF LEWIS MACHINE GUN.

THIS TYPE OF MACHINE GUN USED BY U.S. ARMY AT COLUMBUS, N.M.

Tripod - Mounted Revolver, Firing "Round Bullets for the Christians and Square Missiles for Unspeakable Turks," Was Patented in England 199 Years Ago.

NEWSPAPERS of the country a few days ago chronicled in somewhat routine fashion that the machine gun strength of the supposed American armies is to be increased ten-fold.

This, perhaps, to the casual observer of the events of the world's greatest war, is a colorless detail, especially as compared to the spectacular aeroplane and submarine developments which appeal to the imagination of the average reader. But to the millions of Americans registered for draft, a considerable number of whom are most certain to see active service in France in the new infantry organizations, this terse War Department announcement bristles with significance. To those more fervid and aggressive patriots this ten-fold multiplication of lead sprays pictures victorious assaults, to the more shrinking and cautious a beneficent protection, to all certainty of grim realities of war.

Probably no greater compliment could be paid to this arm of the service. And certainly no more propitious time could be found to pay it than in this, the 200th year since James Puckle of London took up his letters patent, after "at great expenses" having invented "a portable gun or machine called a defence, that discharges so often and so many bullets, and can be so quickly loaded as renders it next to impossible to carry any ship by boarding."

Most citizens and many military men conceive of the machine gun as a modern invention. Not so. While from the invention of gunpowder some such machine was pictured, it, nevertheless, remained for Puckle to produce the revolver-tripod type of gun, as the prototype of the later Gatling, from which evolved the modern Maxim.

Whence comes the proof that "James Puckle, gent., of London, just 200 years ago was at work in his little shop on the problems of a repeating gun? What are the successive steps which mark the picturesque development of this arm to its ready efficiency of 1917?

The answer to the first question is supplied in the library of Hugh K. Wagner, St. Louis, a patent attorney, where a copy of the original English patent, granted July 25, 1718, contributes a minute description of Puckle's invention. The illustration of the Puckle gun shows a striking resemblance to the tripod and revolver chamber with crank that marks the Gatling type.

One's interest in the illustrations which Mr. Puckle furnished in obtaining his patent at once turns to the humane provisions the inventor had in mind in fighting civilized Christian nations, for which a nice, round bullet was provided, as against the square slug for the unspeakable Turk. The moralist will quickly call to mind the twelfth century mode of lighting, with its murder of women and babies on the seas, its gas bombs, its liquid fire, and other undreamed of methods of destruction of helpless non-combatants from the air, sea and land.

Rotating Chamber Piece.
The records of the British patent office

describe the Puckle gun as follows:

The gun is a revolver and mounted on a tripod. It has a single barrel and a rotating chamber piece, consisting of short cylinders fastened around a hollow center, which works on a horizontal pin attached to a barrel. Several sets of chamber pieces, each containing six or more chambers, may be used with the same barrel, so that as soon as all the charges of one set have been fired from one chamber piece, it is unscrewed from the fixed pin or axis on which it revolves and another chamber piece, ready charged, is put in its place. The shapes of the chambers and of the bullets may be varied, some "for shooting square bullets against Turks," others for shooting "round bullets against Christians."

Puckle called his gun "A Defence," and with an undesignated attempt to curry favor with the crown, appended this couplet:

"Defending King George, your country and lawes,
Is defending yourselves and Protestant cause."

The text of the patentee's declaration, in Old English script, is as follows:

"Whereas, our Sovereign Lord, King George by his letters patents, bearing date the Fifteenth Day of May in the Fourth Year of His Majesty's reign, was graciously pleased to give and grant unto me, James Puckle of London, Gent., my executors, administrators and assignees the sole privilege and authority to make, exercise, work and use a portable gun or machine by me lately invented, called a Defence in that part of His Majesty's Kingdom of Great Britain called England, his Dominion of Wales, Town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and His Majesty's Kingdom of Ireland, in such manner and with such materials as should be ascertained to be the aforesaid new invention, by writing under my hand and seal enrolled in the High Court of Chancery within three calendar months of the date of the aforesaid patent as in and by his Majesty's letters patents relation being thereto had, doth and may amongst other things more fully and at large appear. NOW, I, the said James Puckle, do hereby Declare that the materials whereof of the aforesaid machine is made are steel, iron and brass and the tripod (tripod) whereon it stands, is wood and iron, and that in the above print (to which I hereby refer) the said gun or machine by me invented is delineated and described. July the 25th, 1718. (Signed) James Puckle."

Giving due credit to this Englishman of the early eighteenth century, Americans may read of the development of the machine gun with exceptional pride. For, while the machine gun appears to have taken a part in the Napoleonic wars, when fighting reached a new efficiency, all accounts point to its lethargic development and in instances a growing disfavor, for the next century and a half, or until the American civil war.

Then came Richard Jordan Gatling (1818-1903), and Sir Hiram Maxim, a Maine Yankee, for all his knightly in 1901; and Hotchkiss, whose gun the French army and navy adopted over all others, and the recent Lewis gun, the adoption of which by the British stirred a world-wide controversy, wherever Americans were concerned.

The Encyclopedia Britannica pays Gatling the tribute of pointing out his gun, used first by Grant in the late stages of the civil war, succeeded in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 and later European wars to the Spanish-American war in 1898, where its heavier calibers were fired alongside with the lighter Maxims then coming into general use.

The modern machine gun differs from its crude forbears by its firing mechanism, which uses either the gun recoil or the unused energy of exploding gases to fire and reload. The same authority names Sir Hiram Maxim as the first inventor to produce a finished automatic gun of practical value.

Of the machine guns used in the civil war, the Scientific American points out that twenty-five kinds testified to the inventive genius of the period, but only one survived—the Gatling. In the Franco-German war machine guns, known as mitrailleuses, were employed, and, though crude, and so heavy that they had to be drawn by horses, they suggested the possibilities of the new kind of arm. But the menace of the newly invented torpedo boat in the 70s was the most potent stimulant to the development of the machine gun.

Maxim Not a Gunmaker.

The Gatling, which survived in general use during the 80s, consisted of eight barrels, grouped around a central shaft and turned by a crank handle, not unlike the Puckle type. It fed from a hopper, and could be locked to fire at a certain point, or moved about on a swivel to "scatter fire." But it had innumerable objections, most of which have been done away with in the modern guns. It weighed too much—as high as 700 pounds, requiring four men to fire and eighteen men to take it into action. It jammed frequently, and as smokeless powder was unknown it would shortly create a smoke pall which obscured the sight of gunners and required rests while the smoke cleared. Originally of 1-inch caliber, firing a 3½-ounce projectile they could only fire 600 rounds a minute from ten barrels.

Then came the Hotchkiss gun, named after its American inventor, who established works at St. Denis, near Paris, and whose product shortly was adopted by all the first-class powers for the secondary batteries of ships. It was a five-barreled revolving gun of thirty-seven millimeters (1½ inches) caliber, up to fifty-three millimeters, weighed 80 pounds and fired a projectile of from 1 to 6 pounds.

In quick succession came the Nordenföldt gun, adopted by the English army, and the Gardner type, of which, in 1882, the Admiralty ordered 275. It was this winter that Hiram Maxim, then living at a hotel in Paris became interested in the development of rapid-firers, and although he had never made a gun in his life, according to his own admission, he determined to enter the competition. So he went to England, where his experiences are told in his own words:

"The first problem for solution was to make an automatic machine gun using the service rifle ammunition, and when it was announced that an American mechanical engineer and electrician, having a small machine shop in Hatton Garden, had invented and made an automatic machine gun that would actually load and fire itself 600 times in a minute by energy derived from the recoil, very few were prepared to believe it, especially as the gun was said to have only one barrel. It was said to be all a bluff—a typical Yankee yarn."

However, when the late King Edward—then the prince of Wales—the duke of Edinburgh, the duke of Cambridge and the duke of Sutherland had visited his place and fired his little gun, it became the fashion for all the celebrities in London to visit my works and fire the gun. In this way over 200,000 rounds of service cartridge were used."

A short time later Maxim was instructed to take his gun to Hythe for a test before the late Lord Wolseley, and an interesting anecdote was the result.

"The range was 600 yards and the target a very large cast-iron arrangement which really acted as a gong," wrote Maxim years afterward, in describing the incident. "At first a belt of 333 cartridges was attached to the gun. I pulled the trigger and the whole went off in half a minute."

"When, however, I ceased firing, the drumming on the gong-like target continued, and this very much puzzled his lordship. I explained to him that when I had ceased firing there were a considerable number of projectiles in the air, so that the noise continued until all the projectiles had reached the target and all the echoes had returned."

The Maxim gun immediately established itself. Its accuracy was vastly improved over the crank-firing system, which necessarily deranged the sight of the gunner. Through Lord Wolseley's influence, the gun was adopted in both branches of the English service. Wolseley then called on Maxim to produce a machine gun of effective range at 3000 yards that would shoot through the steel plates of ammunition wagons, and, at the same time stop a mad rush at close quarters.

The Deadly "Pom-Pom."

Maxim's answer was a projectile three-quarters of an inch in diameter, 3 inches long, firing a heavy charge. This ferocious cartridge had another ingenious detail. A muzzle attachment for the gun was provided, and when attached four steel cutters would grove the envelope so that by centrifugal force it would break up at close quarters and burst, very much like grape or canister.

The principal objection to this gun was that the gunner could not see the effect of his shooting, to correct his fire. Maxim remedied this by substituting a bursting charge of black powder. This gun made its bow in the South African war, in which it was the artillery surprise. It got its name from its bursting charges, which the natives referred to as "Pom Pom."

Maxim then went into competition with Armstrong, Hotchkiss and Nordenföldt to produce a gun for firing on torpedo boats. He scored another advanced step by devising an absorber to take up the terrific recoil of a gun firing a projectile 21 inches long, a very painful operation to the gunner sighting the weapon.

That Maxim was at this time a keen student of chemistry, and that the laboratory contributed fully as much as the forge and machine shop to the development of the machine gun, is proven by the accounts of Maxim's invention of smokeless powder. Wolseley had objected to the great amount of smoke produced by the rapid firing. Maxim went to work, and his final contribution was a satisfactory mixture of pure trinitrocellulose (true gun cotton), with a small percentage of castor oil added to the solvents.

The discovery of French melinite, heralded as one of the greatest scientific discoveries, set Maxim to work to discover the secret.

"Upon one occasion," Maxim later related, "while I was visiting in France I took a party of French officers to lunch at the Cafe Anglais with one of my fellow-directors. Shortly after we were seated a very pompous gentleman entered and one of the officers stated that this gentleman had made a lot of money recently; he had been to England and had purchased for the French Government all the carbolic acid he could find. The officers told us of a remarkable new explosive that they had obtained. They said: 'It is very powerful, its disruptive effect is greater than dynamite. It is not affected by moisture or high temperature; it is very stable, it will not explode if thrown into a hot furnace, but burns away like resin; if placed on an anvil and struck with a sledge hammer, it will not go off; it may be loaded into projectiles and shot through armor plate without going off. If, however, it is properly confined in a strong receptacle and set off with a powerful detonator, its disruptive effects are simply immense.'"

"When the lunch was over my fellow-

director asked me if there was any connection between carbolic acid and high explosives. I told him that there was, that picric acid was used in the arts 200 years before it was known to be an explosive, that picric acid was trinitrophenol, phenol being carbolic acid.

"Twenty-four hours after this event I was back in England; I had picric acid in my laboratory and found that it would stand every test except one. If placed on an anvil and struck with a hammer it would detonate, but by mixing it with a small quantity of paraffin wax and dinitrobenzol, the compound would melt in boiling water and would not detonate by being struck with a hammer."

The secret became a general one shortly after, though in America several different kinds of "ites" were announced.

Maxim's final important contribution to ordnance was the invention of the delayed action fuse. This was in 1887. Before that time it was impossible to get a charge of high explosive through an armor plate without exploding by the shock of impact before it passed through the armor plate; but by making the fuse a considerable distance from the detonator, Maxim was able to furnish the necessary delay, and the problem that had puzzled artillerymen for so many years was solved forever in a very simple manner.

Now, as to the machine gun of today, which at those war times one's mind associates with machine gun nests, machine guns on torpedo destroyers, on submarines, on airplanes, tanks, armored motor cars and what not. That the machine gun has developed in the stimulus of war is admitted, but the improvement relatively is not marked. Its appreciation as an arm of both offense and defense has, however, shown tremendous strides in its wide application.

At the signing of the war the British Maxim, the French Hotchkiss and the American Colt automatic (very similar to the British gun) appeared supreme. As an infantry arm, firing a rifle cartridge, the following weapons, and their distinguishing characteristics, were in use by the various powers:

Maxim, British—Sighted to 2500 yards; weight 50 to 60 pounds; rate of discharge 450 rounds a minute; recoil.

Hotchkiss, French—Sighted to 2000 yards; weight 52 pounds; discharge 504 to 600 rounds a minute; gas of cartridge utilized for firing.

The American Type.
Colt Automatic, American—Sighted to 2000 yards; weight 30 pounds; rate of discharge 400 rounds up; recoil.

Schwarzlose—Manufactured at Steyr, Austria and adopted by Austria in 1907; simple construction, only ten working parts; weight 37 pounds; belt loader; life of 35,000 rounds.

Perno, Italian—Recoil; metal clips adopted 1907.

Skoda, Japan and China—Hopper feed; operated by gas of cartridge.

Bergmann—Belt loader; gravity feed. The Maxim used in the British army service is of rifle caliber (303-100ths inch), but precisely the same mechanism is embodied in guns of different calibers for other European nations, ranging from 6 millimeters to 11 millimeters. The rifle cartridge of 303-100ths inch (7.7 millimeters) used in the army is adopted in order that the same bullets may be served out for rifle firing and for Maxim.

The bullet weighs 215 grains and is made of lead cased in cupro-nickel.

The heavy Maxim guns, or "pom poms," are used chiefly as naval weapons. They are of 37 millimeters caliber (1.47 inches) and can fire 300 rounds a minute, the shell weighing about 1½ pounds. The guns are mounted in various ways for naval and for land services, the larger guns entailing some modifications. There are some 280 parts in a Maxim, and all are interchangeable. In all, about 150 separate machining operations are required, and 800 gauges used, while the "pom pom" 770 operations are performed by machine tools.

The newest, or Lewis gun, created an international stir when it was adopted by England after American experts had tested it and returned a verdict of wanting.

It is of rifle caliber only, is very light, weighing only 25½ pounds, and requires no mounting, being handled like a rifle. Yet it will fire from 400 to 700 rounds a minute, automatically, after the discharge of the first bullet.

Of course, from this weapon to Mr. Puckle's revolver gun is a far cry in the grim business of producing death-dealing arms, and Uncle Sam's enemy is well versed in their use. The decision of the American military authorities to increase its machine gun strength by tenfold, viewed both from offense and defense, is a measure which should render great confidence, both to the men of the new armies and those who must abide by the result back home.

RAILWAYS ASK MORE FOR HAULING COAL

Lines in Indiana Assert 15 Cents a Ton Additional is Needed.

Indianapolis, July 16.—Representatives of railroads which pass through Indiana appeared before the state public service commission today and testified that in their opinion an increase of a flat sum of 15 cents a ton in the freight rates on coal is necessary for what coal is mined in and shipped to Indiana points. William J. Jackson, president and receiver of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and Myron J. Carpenter, president of the Chicago, Terre Haute & Eastern Illinois, both testified at the morning session. Their testimony agreed that the railroads had to meet much heavier expenses because of the Adamson law and increased cost of material. The Indiana bituminous coal operators were represented at the hearings. They contend that if any increases were given the railroads it should be on a percentage and not on a flat rate per ton basis. The proposed increase is opposed by Indiana manufacturers and business interests which assert that the railroads recently were given authority to increase coal rates in this territory in interstate traffic, and they say most of the Indiana coal is shipped out of the state, what coal is affected by the request of the roads is not sufficient to justify the increase under the theory of higher wages and costs. The hearing will continue until Wednesday.

GARRETT MAN IS HIT BY AN AUTOMOBILE

R. N. Van Slyke is Seriously Hurt in Accident at Auburn.

(Special to The Sentinel). Garrett, Ind., July 16.—R. N. Van Slyke, of this city, was run down by an auto at Auburn Sunday afternoon and badly injured. He with his wife had gone to Auburn on the 3:20 car and went to the Eckhart park. While they were walking on the sidewalk Miss Trith, daughter of William Trith, of Fairfield Center, attempted to turn around and in doing so ran clear up onto the sidewalk, striking Mr. Van Slyke, knocking him down, breaking the right leg between the knee and hip, injuring the left leg at the ankle and the left shoulder. His entire body is badly bruised. His wife who was walking with him escaped in a most miraculous way. She has suffered several strokes of paralysis and it is very difficult for her to walk. She had hold of his arm at the time but in some way got out of the way of the machine, it missing her by but a few inches. Drs. Hines were called at once and the injured man was brought to Sacred Heart hospital in the Clark ambulance. Mr. Van Slyke has run no popcorn wagon in this city for several years and is one of our most respected citizens. Garrett Brief Items. Harry Anderson, of this city, was arraigned in the DeKalb county circuit court Saturday on a charge of grand larceny. It was claimed that he had stolen $50 from the apron pocket of Mrs. Gus Blanton while he was his arms around her. After hearing considerable evidence Judge Link acquitted Anderson, stating at the time that he thought neither side had told the truth. John Miller, of this city, drew a ninety day sentence at the penal farm for the theft of about thirty-six pounds of copper. Miller pleaded not guilty, claiming he was assisting another man to remove the copper to his home and did not know it was stolen, but an investigation proved that the man he named had left town before theft. Miller is an Austrian. The chautauque closed in this city Saturday evening with the Handel choir and the pageant, the latter being given by the children and young ladies of this city under the direction of Miss Mary Allen. FRAME COMPROMISE FOR THE FOOD BILL

BOARD OF CONTROL INSTEAD OF GIVING ALL POWER TO ONE

Senate Leaders Make Progress With Amendments, Debate Is Resumed and Vote May Be Taken Today.

REVISED BILL LIKELY TO BE APPROVED

Washington, July 17.—Senate leaders today virtually concluded their task of drafting compromise amendments to the administration food control bill and debate was continued with the prospect of voting late today or tomorrow.

The compromise agreement the democrats and republicans who have been working together believe will command support from a majority of the senate.

Creation of a board of food administration in lieu of a single individual, composed of three members directly under the president's control, is the principal change to be proposed by the leaders. Other important changes agreed upon today at the bipartisan conference were for fixing by congress of a minimum price of $1.75 per bushel for wheat, and extension of the government licensing and food purchasing powers in the bill. It previously had been agreed to limit government control to foods, feeds and fuels including gasoline and kerosene. The minimum wheat price of $1.75 under the tentative amendment drafted today, would be for No. 1 northern wheat as a basis of standard for minimum prices of all other wheat grades.

Provisions of Senator Gore's substitute bill regarding the wheat minimum price, the licensing and federal requisitioning purchase and sale powers were substantially approved by the leaders. The proposed compromise would provide for licensing of elevators, cold

THINK IT FOURTH OF JULY WHEN A U-BOAT BOMBARDS

An Atlantic Port, July 17.—The bombardment of St. Michaels, Azores, on July 4 by a German submarine was at first thought to be a Fourth of July celebration by American naval ships in port, said the captain of a British steamship from Lisbon and St. Michaels, which arrived here today. The firing began early in the morning, he said, but as the shells commenced to explode over the city the illusion that it was part of an Independence day program was quickly dispelled.

An American collier in port returned the submarine's fire with such precision and volume that the undersea craft soon submerged. The British steamship captain, who was an eye witness of the fight, said the U-boat was 300 feet long and carried two guns. One girl and a man were killed in St. Michaels by German shells.

POISON LIVE STOCK AND DESTROY BARN WHOLESALE IN WEST

Klamath Falls, Ore., July 17.—Evidence of wholesale poisoning of live stock and attempt to burn farm buildings in this district has been uncovered by federal agents, who are conducting an investigation here into the responsibility for a fire which last Sunday destroyed a large flour mill and a quantity of grain. It was announced today by Assistant United States Attorney J. H. Carnahan.

From the farm of J. Frank Adams, a report was made that 25 horses and 200 cattle had died recently of poisoning and fifty head of cattle and forty sheep died in the same manner on two other ranches. Adams it is said, has been engaged for the last two years in supplying horses and cattle to the enterprising governments.

After the fire Sunday the headquarters here of the Industrial Workers of the World was raided and forty members of the organization were arrested.

BECOMES CHANCELLOR THROUGH POLITICAL CRISIS IN GERMANY

DR. GEORG MICHAELIS

Dr. Georg Michaelis, new chancellor of Germany, has had a varied official experience. He was born September 8, 1857, in Haynau, Schleswig, son of justice of last appeal. After holding offices of referee and assessor he was appointed, in 1885, state attorney at Berlin, whence he was called to the school of justice and politics at Berlin.

At the end of 1889, Dr. Michaelis returned to Germany and was state's attorney, transferred in 1892 to the government service in Trier, Treves. After minor promotions he was presiding justice at Breslau from 1903 to 1906. Then he first saw high official service when the kaiser appointed him assistant state secretary in the Prussian ministry of finance. Last year Dr. Michaelis was appointed assistant Prussian food commissioner, first assistant to the imperial food dictator, Adolph von Batocki. This brought him into special prominence in the reichstag, where he delivered several addresses. He held this position when the kaiser appointed him chancellor.

Washington, July 17.—With only ten states remaining to be heard from on the organization of local exemption boards and with the serial number lists of registrants from all but 649 of the 4,559 exemption districts on file in Washington, Provost Marshal General Crowder was hopeful today that the preliminary stages of the war army drawing would be completed within forty-eight hours. He prepared to take up with Secretary Baker later in the day details of the lottery process for final approval.

One Can Hold Up All. If there is no unexpected delay it seems likely that the drawing can be held Friday or Saturday. A single district which fails to finish its preliminary work on time, however, can hold up action indefinitely.

Once past the drawing stage, General Crowder pointed out today, the Petrograd, Monday, July 16.—Two demonstrations against the government resulted in the firing of shots in the Nevsky Prospect at midnight as a result of which a number of persons were killed or wounded.

The firing apparently was the result of stray shots which brought on a panic, in which the demonstrators turned rifles and machine guns on each other. Quiet was restored after a few minutes.

The demonstrations were organized by the Bolsheviks, the majority faction of the social-democratic party.

THREE QUIT THE CABINET.

Petrograd, July 17.—Three members of the cabinet have resigned and a special session of the council of ministers has been convoked in an effort to avert a crisis.

Their names are A. I. Shingarov, minister of finance; Prof. Manuloff, minister of education, and Prince Shakhovskiy, head of the department of public aid. The resignations of these cabinet ministers followed a sharp disagreement over questions involving the Ukraine, an extensive region in Russia embracing the territories of the old kingdom of Poland.

London, July 17.—King George today at a meeting of the privy council announced the new name of the royal house and family to be "The House of Windsor."

The privy council at which the king announced the change was held at St. James palace. It was the most important and largest attended since the coronation.

The attendance included Premier Lloyd George, Foreign Secretary Balfour, the archbishop of Canterbury, former Premier Asquith and all members of the colonial government who are now in London.

The privy council unanimously endorsed King George's announcement and the proclamation putting it into effect was published this afternoon.

King George is of the house of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. It was recently decided to drop titles or names of German origin.

New York, July 17.—Wounded while fighting in the Boer army against the British, Henry Craemer, now 38 years old, has enlisted in the British army. He asked for Gen. W. A. White, in charge of British recruiting in America, and refreshed the general's memory regarding the charge at Ladysmith, and the officers' subsequent interrogation of Boer prisoners.

"I was one of them," Craemer said. "I don't hate the English any more and I want to fight against the Germans." Craemer was accepted for the cavalry.

AN EARLIER ACCOUNT.

London, July 17.—The admiral announces the capture of four German steamers by British destroyers in the North sea.

Two other German steamers were with the four vessels later captured when the group was sighted by the British war craft. All six made for the British coast and two of them reached the shore. These two were badly damaged by gun fire.

The steamers are the Pellworm, Brietzeig, Marie Horn and Heinzblum-berg.

The captured steamers are all small, the largest being the Brietzeig, of 1,495 tons gross, owned in Hamburg. The Pellworm, 1,370 tons gross, also was owned in Hamburg. The Marie Horn, 1,088 tons, is from Schleswig, and the Heinzblumberg, 1,226 tons, is registered from Hamburg.

GOVERNOR BARS SWALLOWTAILS AND A HIGH HAT

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 17.—Tulsa's reception committee which will welcome the Belgian mission on its visit to Oklahoma next Saturday may be forced to do without the presence of Governor E. L. Williams unless he is allowed to appear in a suit of negligence. The custom of associates of the mission appearing in full afternoon dress is the stumbling block, for the governor refused to appear in clothing not suitable to a 100 degree temperature.

"I am not going to get into a heavy frock coat or silk hat for that occasion," said Governor Williams, "and I will notify the chairman of the reception committee at Tulsa that unless they get into $6 summer suits or something similar they may not expect me. I've got a dress suit, and a silk hat, but I could not wear a full dress suit in the daytime and a silk hat does not match a dark suit. The suit is the best I have."

GERMANS HAVE HEAVY LOSSES

Sacrifices on Fronts in France and Belgium 350,000 Men.

THESE SACRIFICES FOR THREE MONTHS

Change of Divisions Gives Fairly Accurate Means of Gauging Losses.

French Front, June 25.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Severe inroads have been made on the strength of the German troops holding the line on the Franco-British front during the attacks delivered on them in the months of April, May and June. An estimate made on well established averages demonstrates that their losses must approximate 350,000 men.

INDIANA LOAN COMPANY

211-212 Shoaff Bldg. 2nd Floor.

French and British began, the German front had been divided into two sectors entirely independent of each other. One faced the French between the Oise and the Swiss frontier and was under the command of the crown prince. The other confronted the British from the North sea to the Oise and was commanded by the Bavarian crown prince.

Vast German Forces.

At the beginning of the Franco-British offensive the Germans had at their disposal on the whole front stretching from the North sea to Switzerland, 147 divisions, of which 105 were actually in the front line and 42 in the rear ready for employment at any point where their help was needed. These reserve divisions were about equally distributed in the northern and southern sectors.

The situation on the Russian front permitted the Germans to detach some of their active divisions from that side and at the same time they formed several new divisions, which they brought to the French front so that on June 20 the number of their divisions facing the French and British was 155 in spite of the fact that they had replaced the active divisions brought from Russia by landwehr units sent from this side.

The strength of the German forces on the Franco-British front cannot, however, be calculated exactly from the number of their divisions, for no fewer than 112 of the 155 have been thrown into the battles at various times and 23 of them have been twice engaged, thus totaling in reality 135 divisions which have been in action.

Losses Gauged Accurately. As a general rule a division is not withdrawn from the fighting line until it has lost one-third of its effectives and thus the German losses may be fairly accurately gauged. For instance, a German division nowadays when at full strength numbers approximately 7,500 infantrymen.

Therefore the 135 divisions, which have passed through the fire have in all probability each lost 2,500 killed, wounded and prisoners, making in all 347,500 casualties in less than three months without regard to losses among the artillery engineers and other service troops. Forty-three of the German divisions on this front have not taken part in the fighting, these comprising eighteen landwehr divisions, considered as second line troops, and twenty-five other divisions.

Some of the German divisions have had to be withdrawn after only two days' fighting on account of their a division may remain as long as six days and still others only after fifteen days or even a month.

Frequent Changes Show Losses. During quiet periods, such as now, a division may remain as long as six or seven weeks in a front sector, without relief and it is known that at least seven German divisions now engaged have occupied their sectors of the front line for this period. A German division which has suffered heavy losses is generally given a rest varying from five to twelve days in which to recuperate and have its ranks refilled from the depots and then it is sent to hold a calm sector. Sometimes, however, it has been found necessary to send such a division back to active work almost immediately while in other cases a month's rest has been necessary. One peculiar feature noticed on this front is that the German divisions brought back from Russia have never been sent into the first line without going through a fresh course of training, as it was found the troops had lost much of their dash.

AGENTS FAVOR ACID PHOSPHATE FERTILIZER

In a resolution adopted at the conference of county agents held Monday afternoon in the assembly room of the court house, acid phosphate fertilizer of 16 to 18 per cent was favored by all those present for wheat.

Prof. J. C. Beaver, of Purdue, spoke to the assemblage and told that in sowing wheat three things should be carefully watched. There should be a deep seed bed. Good seed should be chosen and all seed should be treated for smut.

The importance of being a telephone operator was depicted in a moving picture show at the Orpheum theater for the benefit of the operators of the Home Telephone company Monday evening. The exact work and the service to the public from efficient telephone operators were carried along in a delightful drama of romance.

The performance was the first move towards organizing a school for the education of new telephone girls to be installed by the Home company. Miss Esther Wolf will be in active charge of carrying on the course of instruction for embryo operators.

CANNING TOMATOES MADE CLASSIC ART

Canning whole tomatoes and thick sliced tomatoes and tomatoes for catsup are culine operations which are fully explained in a brand new bulletin issued by the government and delivered Tuesday to food relief headquarters on South Clinton street. The illustrated pamphlet, of thirty-six pages tells in a clear way about all that is to be known about putting up the luscious garden product. Two other bulletins now at the headquarters are on "Storing and Marketing Sweet Potatoes" and "Preparation of Vegetables for the Table."

Food relief workers urge that the public make use of these booklets, which hold valuable recipes, as the conservation of food is as important as the production of vegetables.

CARRIED HALF MILE.

In an Automobile Hit by a Train and Is Still Alive.

Howe, Ind., July 17.—Although carried for half a mile in his automobile, which was caught on the side of a passenger train as the result of being hit, James Schaeffer, a farmer, is still alive. His injuries consist of a crushed right ankle, a broken right leg and a long gash over the right ear. He will recover. Schaeffer lives near Klinger lake. He was returning from Lima and was hit at the Perry McKee crossing of the Goshen and Jackson branch of the New York Central lines by a south bound passenger train.

The automobile was caught and carried ahead of the train. The engineer fearing that a sudden stop would dislodge the car, throwing Schaeffer onto the track, he slowly applied the brakes and brought the train to a gentle stop a half mile from the scene of the crash.

INCREASE IN SIZE.

Bluffton, Ind., July 17.—Local bakers today increased the size of their loaves to eighteen ounces. The size of the loaves have been increased as the price of flour goes down. Buns also dropped in price this morning, being sold at 10 cents per dozen. They have been selling at 12 cents. Just how long this price will prevail is not known but the bakers say that they will continue increasing the size of the loaves if flour continues to drop, or if it advances will cut the size.

LIKES ARMY LIFE.

Kendallville, Ind., July 17.—John La Rue, who is holding down a stenographic position in one of Uncle Sam's medical corps at Fort Thomas, Ky., has arrived home for a short visit with his father and other friends. The young man looks hale and hearty and is telling his friends the fun and experience he is having since he became identified with the United States army. He is much impressed with army life and emphasizes the fact that there is nothing like it.

ASSISTANT NAMED.

Decatur, Ind., July 17.—When Harold Henneford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Henneford, of Vera Cruz, and brother of Mrs. Dan Niblick, this city, returns to Spokane, Wash., this fall after spending his summer vacation here, he will take up a new phase of work, having been promoted to the position of vice principal of the Lewis and Clark high school, said to be the largest high school in the United States.

RUSSIAN DETAINED.

Van Wert, O., July 17.—The officers of the law were summoned to Middle Point on Sunday to question a native of Russia, who was found in that town and was without military registration papers or other documents to show that he is a lawful citizen. The Russian claimed to have worked up to a few days ago for the Ringling circus.

STOMACH TROUBLE QUICKLY CURED

Ironated Herbs Truly "Modern Medicine."

ADVISES FRIENDS.

"When my stomach began to trouble me I commenced taking all sorts of medicines, but without result. My pains increased and after some time I began to get nervous. So bad that it was difficult for me to get along with anyone. And then came sleeplessness. Hours and hours that I lay awake in bed without being able to fall asleep. Since taking Ironated Herbs, with Pepsin (in liquid form), my appetite has improved and I relish everything that I eat. I sleep better and I feel stronger. The gas on my stomach that caused me such intense suffering has entirely disappeared. I have more energy and feel in better health than I have in years."

That's what Mr. Chester Wellington, of this city, said to our demonstrator at Meyer Bros. Drug Store. "I gladly recommend this Modern Medicine to anyone who is run down in health and in poor and nervous condition and who is in need of thick red blood."

Many others like Mr. Wellington, who is well known here and has a number of friends acquired as salesman for the National Mill Supply Co., have regained new health and strength through Ironated Herbs. A tired, dragging feeling of the body, sluggish mind and dull memory, intense nervousness, stomach and bowel troubles, poor circulation, imperfect digestion are some of the common symptoms of a run down condition from which many people suffer at this time of the year. Ironated Herbs, with Pepsin, is the remedy that relieves this trouble.

Our demonstrator will gladly explain to you its merits and supply you with a bottle at Meyer Bros. Drug Store, 902 Calhoun street, Fort Wayne. It is also sold in all Meyer Bros. other Fort Wayne stores; at Bluffton by Davenport & Bley; Huntington, A. C. Beckstein; Rosamond, Hackett & Sons; New Haven, H. E. SEATING CAPACITY PROVED TO BE SMALL Newly Born Shetland Pony Christened "Ft. Wayne" by the Keeper.

Gentry Brothers' dog and pony show gave two performances in Fort Wayne Monday. In the afternoon the large tent was filled while in the evening it was overflowed. More seats had to be provided and hundreds of boys were given seats on dry straw in front of the row of seats.

During the afternoon performance the keeper of the ponies entered the center ring in the large tent with a newly born Shetland pony in his arms. He said that it was ushered into this world Sunday night. He went through a small ceremony and christened the little pony "Fort Wayne." The crowd applauded and cheered.

In all the show was far above what people anticipated. In previous years the show traveled in four sections but this year all are united into one. The three elephants and camels proved to be great attractions. Monkeys, dogs and ponies galore offered two hours of amusement for the children as well as the grownups. Clowns were not missing and their many capers and stunts brought forth loud and prolonged peals of laughter. The show left early Tuesday morning over the L. E. & W.

Shady Brook park, only 12 minutes on Ohio Electric line.

This morning we placed on sale 1,450 children's "Yo-ka-ha-la" Wash Suits at $1.15. A two-dollar suit is the cheapest "Yo-ka-ha-la" suit that is made. Read ad on page three.

WORLD IS AWRY, SAYS WOMAN IN CITY COURT

Brands as Falsifiers All Witnesses in Larceny Case.

"Are they all liars?" inquired Judge H. W. Kerr in city court Tuesday morning of Mrs. Ida Washington, colored, after an array of witnesses had drawn a net of damaging testimony about her defense on a larceny charge. The woman nodded assent.

"I deny everything," she said. Those guilty of perjury, according to Mrs. Washington's statement, were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Frank, 721 East Wayne street, who told that the woman had worked for them and had stolen goods from their home; the woman next door, who said she loaned the colored woman a quarter; the taxi driver, who said he called for the negroes and took her to the interurban station when she left the Frank home, and the police who told of stories related to them by the colored maid.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank testified that they went to Rome City over the weekend several weeks ago, leaving Mrs. Washington, who had worked in the house a short time, at home. When they returned to Fort Wayne their hired girl was gone and so was a gold watch, a diamond stick pin, a suit case, a coat, a waist and other things valued at $267.

A jitney driver said he called at the Frank home and took Mrs. Washington and a new suit case to the interurban station. Detective Sergeant Pappert, who has been working on the case, told of finding the worn-out suit case and old coat belonging to Mrs. Washington in the Frank home. He brought out the articles.

"That is none of my suit case," said the woman. "I cannot believe that all these witnesses tell falsehoods," said the judge. Mrs. Washington was bound to circuit court for his concluding words, charged under $1,000 bond.

"And to think her name is Washington," commented the judge after the session.

STILL TALKING COAL.

Governor Goodrich has been for several days in Washington holding consultations with sundry persons and groups in an effort to get guiding light on the coal situation. The governor took occasion to repeat with some additions of emphasis that if the federal government shall fail to deal with the general coal situation in a way to bring relief to Indiana there most surely will be a special session of the legislature to take appropriate action. Governor Goodrich states, as he had previously stated, that he prefers federal action and will undertake separate measures only as a last resort.

That the governor means business would be less open to intervention of doubt if his consultations in Washington were a little less of a partisan character. Only republican members of the Indiana delegation in congress were allowed to be privy to his inner views and intent and the council was held in the office of Senator James E. Watson. Betting solely on the dope-sheet, there is not much to be hoped for if Senator Watson is to have a hearty say-so in measures to bring the Indiana coal barons to time. Still the dope-sheet may be stale and the senator may be running in new and better form since his advent in the senate of the United States. That is a pleasant hope if not a plausible conclusion, and there is no harm in embracing the hope until it proves futile.

The probability is that Governor Goodrich's purpose in taking counsel of the Indiana republicans in congress had less to do directly with the price of coal and assurances of distribution than with the political consequences of a special session of the legislature. Special sessions are not always to partisan advantage. The last such session held in the state was fraught with partisan consequences of which Senator Watson must still have sorry recollections. Moreover, there is no reason to suppose that either Senator Watson or Senator New can be especially enamored of the idea of doing anything drastic to bring the Indiana coal barons to time. The governor has advanced some in his political and social outlook as compared with his partisan confederates of the standpat type. We do not question the sincerity of his purpose nor the determination of his mind that something must be done to relieve the coal situation in this state.

So long as there shall continue to be failure of the federal trade commission and other agencies of the general government to take effective measures for relieving the country of the grave menace of a fuel famine during the coming winter, there can be no serious quarrel with Governor Goodrich if he guides his actions by partisan considerations—and we do not intend here the inference that he is seeking to do anything of the sort. We are quite willing to believe that he is not and to hold to that belief until the contrary appears.

There ought to be early and conclusive action upon the fuel issue. The federal government is the authority through which this can best come. If no relief comes that way, Governor Goodrich can help the Indiana situation by getting the legislature together and obtaining laws that will permit the state government to exercise such control of the mines and mining as will insure ample production and prices that comport reasonably with the times.

The governor of Indiana and the governor of Illinois join in complaint that the census bureau estimates of population for the purposes of the army draft do their respective states injustice. It may be and probably is the truth. But the census bureau probably took without the question the word of Chicago and the boast of Evansville as to increases of population.

And while you're thinking of the draft, go learn your number. Then you will be able to rejoice or repine the moment your figure comes out of the big lottery. There's nothing like being forehanded against painful suspense.

And now we have it on the word of a senator from Missouri—not Gumshoe Bill, either—that Herbert C. Hoover is a food gambler, a sort of J. Rufus Wallingford and that he plunged in beans. Well, well, well. Next we shall hear that Kerensky is the promoter and chief stockholder of a powder mill in Russia and that Woodrow Wilson has all his surplus salary salted away in airplane stocks. Little more than half a century ago men of very good standing were trying to prove Lincoln a tyrant and usurper and some centuries earlier the mob yawned and yelled at One still better, "Crucify him, crucify him!"—which at length the mob did. There are no analogies here, but this, that and the other simply go to show.

THE RUSSIAN DRIVE.

On the whole front, from the gulf of Riga to Rumania, the Russian armies are in motion. A massive drive along the whole long line is proceeding and the Teutonic allies have been suddenly thrown into a panic of haste to meet it.

It is not to be expected that along the whole front the Russians will be able to achieve advances such as have marked the campaign of the brilliant Korniloff in Galicia during the whole of the present month. Nevertheless, the spectacle of the Russ armies up and at it is inspiring. It creates a powerful diversion that will afford immense relief to ally arms along the Belgian, French and Italian fronts and can be conceived as opening the way to some developments in the Balkans, where for a year Serrail has been getting ready and then getting ready some more.

Aside from the importance of military advantages that must issue from the Russian drive, the movement itself is almost a miracle. A month ago it was Germany's sneer and the ally fear that the Muscovite was out of business in the war for many months if not for good. There was every indication and promise that in arms Russia had become a futility, that the Teutonic defense from the Baltic to the Black sea had become merely nominal and that practically the whole of the German and Austrian forces had been made available for the western and Italian fronts. There is no denial that the French and British offensive designed for the late spring was badly shattered by the fall-down of Russia following the revolution. The entrance of America into the war was the brightest ray of hope and that was felt to be not altogether full compensation for the loss of Russia from the field.

What Russia is doing today discloses more than ever the brilliant, almost superhuman, achievements of the young Kerensky, Russia's minister of war. Within half a dozen weeks he has transformed his nation, rejuvenated its armies and set its forces fired with new spirit upon a militant progress that may mark a sharp turning of the tide of war. Russia may and doubtless will suffer reverses—perhaps severe ones—but she is playing the game now with wonderful elation and in Galicia with tremendous success. It is as astonishing as it is inspiring to view this amazing come-back of Russian arms so soon following what had the appearance of almost complete disappearance of spirit and abatement of energy.

PADDING THE CENSUS.

It is openly charged on the floor of the United States senate that the census estimates on which draft allotments to the states are based have been padded in such wise as to reduce the just quotas of southern states and to impose on northern states the unfair duty of making up the deficiencies.

If a less incontinent partisan and south-baiter than Senator Lodge or a less sordid party man than Senator Brandegee constituted the head and front of such a protest it would have better weight, though on the other hand if they stood alone in making it the charge would be much less impressive than it is, for they do not stand alone.

It is a matter that ought to be looked into with good temper and fairness, but with settled purpose to get at the truth. The senate has taken such steps and properly so. If there is any design to permit the southern states to slack in the raising of armies it ought to be made clear to the country. If the charges are merely partisan it will be well to expose the men who are seeking to turn conditions to such account.

There should be no delay getting at the thing. It is sure to provoke feeling not salutary at this time.

And poor Gumshoe Bill Stone—from Missouri, you know—is now troubled in his heart and cast down in his mind about what is going to become of "this old charter of our liberties" after the war is over. Cheer up, Bill. The palladium saw darker days than these in another war, of which you know something.

Making the world safe for democracy is a piker's issue alongside the question of making America safe for old John Barleycorn.

BETTER SHOP EFFICIENCY IS A PATRIOTIC DUTY IN TIME OF NATIONAL STRESS

BY GEORGE F. CARD.

A great deal is being said and written these days about the conservation of food supplies and the elimination of all kinds of wastes. In some times this is a good doctrine to preach, but now, in the midst of a world war that may lengthen into years and tax every resource of our country it assumes far greater importance than the mere increase of individual or corporate profits and becomes a patriotic duty.

Perhaps no field offers greater opportunity to develop any dirt through a systematic effort than does industrial occupations of all kinds. Factories are already beginning to feel the scarcity of help and after one or two levels of drafted men are withdrawn from them the pinch will become acute and a remedy urgently sought for. Women will replace men in large numbers as they are doing in other countries, but with all the help they can give the manufacture of war supplies will still be too slow, because anything short of immense quantities beyond the most reckless consumption when needed may spell disaster. The logical thing to do in this emergency is to get greater production from a given floor space and a given number of employees. Not by harsh measures and driving, that is obsolete, but by a systematic and thorough investigation of methods, processes, machines and men, to the end that standards may be established and wastes of all kinds eliminated. Wastes of mental and physical effort, wastes of material, wastes of transportation, wastes of motion, and numerous other wastes, so prevalent in our factories, that must eventually, war or no war, be turned into a profit to save the business from competitive financial disaster.

Large losses are of minor importance because they are usually seen and quickly taken care of. It is the small losses, those inconspicuous as units, but large in the aggregate that causes most trouble. A few standards may be established and wastes of all kinds eliminated. Wastes of mental and physical effort, wastes of material, wastes of transportation, wastes of motion, and numerous other wastes, so prevalent in our factories, that must eventually, war or no war, be turned into a profit to save the business from competitive financial disaster.

Wastes of mental and physical effort, wastes of material, wastes of transportation, wastes of motion, and numerous other wastes, so prevalent in our factories, that must eventually, war or no war, be turned into a profit to save the business from competitive financial disaster.

Delayed production on account of shortage of material or parts that were neglected or improperly scheduled. Machine losses because of bad location, inefficient handling of material about them or the use of wrongly designed tools at improper feeds and speeds. A good observer will see many other things that are not as they should be (which could be made so with a little ingenuity and attention) but these three will be enough to keep him busy and should furnish material for a very interesting report. In several factories where this experiment was tried it was thought best to suppress the report until changes could be made to improve conditions. Stockholders and directors have a habit of asking important questions about matters that don't concern them. There is another feature about this efficiency business that should appeal strongly to young men ambitious to improve their condition, and that is the increasing demand for qualified men to fill the various positions necessary for the successful operation of specialized management. I am advised by four of the largest employment agencies in the west that they are unable to get enough production engineers, time and motion study experts, cost accountants, stock keepers familiar with economic systems of symbolizing, and functional foremen with experience, to supply the demand. The pay is attractive, varying from $1,500 to $5,000 per year and the work is intensely interesting and satisfying to anyone who has the faculty to distinguish between ways for doing things that will be cheaper and quicker than the old way, and ways that look attractive but are not practical.

One of the largest concerns in Chicago finding it impossible to secure men from the outside to fill these positions has started a school of their own for the education of young men and advertises for high school graduates to take special training in production, inspection and accounting work.

All the leading papers in the country frequently carry want ads for help of this kind, and the Sunday issue of a Chicago paper recently contained eleven opportunities to secure efficiency positions, and not a single advertisement by men wanting them.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

Wabash citizens are working for a street car line.

Troops have been called out and are now on duty in three states to suppress riots.

L. A. Centlivre leaves this evening for Pittsburg, where his horses, Atlantic King and Mary Centlivre, start in races tomorrow and Thursday.

A runaway horse and buggy belonging to Simon Kany crossed a trestle for a short time Saturday night at the corner of Main street and Broadway.

Roy Keator, son of T. P. Keator, formerly editor of the Gazette, is one of the Chicago delegates to the convention of bicyclists now being held in Washington.

Nick Loring, of New Haven, who recently met with injuries on the Nickel Plate, had another operation performed Saturday evening, when half of his left hand was amputated. Tuesday previous he had his little finger cut off.

Tomorrow, if the weather is favorable, a party of our citizens will have a basket picnic up the St. Joe river. Those who will participate in the affair are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rehling, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Hagerfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hagerfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schoppman, Miss Mary Kell, Ed Borkmeier and Louis Hagerfeld.

Elsewhere in the Sentinel will be found an advertisement for sealed proposals to gather and dispose of the city's garbage. So far the garbage ordinance has not been as beneficial as its advocates anticipated. The ordinance is all right, but the force of garbage gathering is not equal to the work and as a result accumulations of a week or ten days sometimes occur.

James Omison, a 15-year-old lad whose parents live on South Wayne avenue, met with a severe accident Saturday at the John Pressler shops. He was engaged in cleaning bathtubs with gasoline and his clothes were saturated with the oil. In walking about he stepped on a parlor match and the spark set fire to his trousers. Before the flames were extinguished his legs were severely burned.

There are 350 species of parrots, chiefly confined to the warm parts of America, Asia, Africa and Australia. There is none in Europe and none in Asia west of the Indies, and while numerous in the Malay archipelago, they are wanting in China, Cochinchina and the Philippine Islands. The only species native to the United States is the Carolina parakeet.

GETTING ACQUAINTED!

YOUNG HUSBAND PUTS SELF IN FRIGID ZONE

As Heat of Wrangle Cools His Wife Thinks Less of City Court.

Earl Richie, 23, of 2204 West Park avenue, shut himself out in the cold when he called police to quell a disturbance at his house Monday evening.

Richie signed an affidavit charging Jess Geisman, his brother-in-law, with assault and battery. Richie charged that Geisman struck Mrs. Richie, who is Geisman's sister.

All anger between brother and sister had died away over the night. The sister was moved to tears when she saw her brother in the prisoner's row Tuesday morning. She went to him and kissed him fervently. When called to testify she said that there was nothing to the story that her brother had attacked her.

Richie said that Geisman came to their joint home in an intoxicated state Monday evening and abused Mrs. Richie. Geisman testified that he was not so drunk but that he could walk straight Monday and that Richie had overdrawn all facts.

Geisman was found guilty of the assault charge. The case was continued indefinitely. The quartet of Mr. and Mrs. Geisman and Earl Richie and wife left the police station at the same time. But not in a body. Earl Richie was ignored. His wife spurned his efforts to talk with her. He was forced to go his way alone.

Another Slacker?

Mike Keely, of Boston, claims he is 18 years old. He appeared much older to officers who arrested him on a loitering charge Monday. He admits he did not register for draft. Judge Kerr thinks he may be a slacker. He bound the young man over to Federal Commissioner T. J. Logan for more thorough investigation.

Good in Figures.

Ollie Hughes, 27, colored, is a shrewd fellow. He refused to testify in police court, Tuesday, when charged with embezzlement. He was bound to higher court under $300 bond. The story of his difficulty is related by the police as follows:

He went into a grocery store in Grubill one day last week.

"Gimme twenty dollars," he said.

The storekeeper counted out twenty bones. Hughes gave the man a check on the Wolf & Dessauer store for twenty. Later it was found that the check was for twenty cents and Hughes was gone with twenty dollars. The colored man was arrested by Detective Sergeant Junk when he returned to Fort Wayne from Peru.

Other Police Court Cases.

Curtis Weaver was charged with having been intoxicated in the Nickel Plate depot, on Monday. He was not drunk, he stated. The whisky bottle taken from his hip pocket had become uncorked and had emptied itself, he explained. He was fined $10 and costs. William Poulson was fined $1 and costs on a like charge. William Polst was released after pleading guilty to a drunk complaint.

Charles Smith, charged with wife neglect, was ordered to pay $4 a week towards the keeping of his family. Ray Dudley, charged with train climbing, was allowed to leave town.

WARNING AGAINST TRACHOMA IN ARMY

Recruiting Officers Are Urged to Be Vigilant to Keep It Out.

Washington, July 17.—A warning against the acceptance by recruiting officers of applicants for naval or military service who may be suffering from trachoma was issued today by the public health service.

"The history of European wars," reads the statement, "shows that trachoma has been a grave menace to the efficiency of fighting forces, invalidating thousands of men and blinding large numbers of its victims. Despite the confusing and contradictory statements in connection with trachoma the contagious character of the disease is unquestionable."

One hundred years ago, the statement continued, one Belgian soldier in every five suffered from the malady, and "the English, Prussian, Russian and other armies suffered from the ravage of this disease."

Careful examination of the eyes of all applicants is urged.

"An applicant who is found to be suffering with a well marked trachoma," the statement reads, "should not be immediately rejected, but should be given treatment and his trachoma cured. He can then be again examined to determine whether he has resulting visual defects sufficient to cause his rejection. In this way, a case of contagious disease will be eliminated and probably a good soldier gained."

Today we place on sale 1,450 Children's $2.00 Wash Suits at $1.15. Read ad on page three. PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO.

BACK IN OLD POSITION.

Notices issued from Superintendent Otto Schroll's office today announce the appointment of C. L. Klein, freight and passenger agent at Arcola, for the company. He succeeds R. J.

Grant, who was the acting agent.

Klein had been agent before, but was taken sick two or three months ago and Mr. Grant was appointed in his place.

Mamo is the name of a beautiful bird of the Hawaiian islands, now believed to be extinct, having been destroyed for the sake of its golden-yellow feathers, used in former days to decorate the state robes of chiefs.

The birds "parrots" called "Mamo" are natives of Africa and are abundant in Madagascar. These birds adopt themselves readily to captivity. They breed readily in confinement, producing two broods in a season.

(Special to the Sentinel.)
Columbia City, July 17.—Frank Schuman, aged 66 years, for several years a prominent resident of Richland township, who lately moved to Columbia City to lead a retired life, died here at 11:45 o'clock Monday afternoon following an illness of less than twenty hours from apoplexy. He had lain down on a sofa the evening before and when Mrs. Schuman awoke Monday morning at 5 o'clock and went to her husband's side, she found him in a serious condition. He is survived by his wife and four children, Mrs. Merritt Crowell, Jefferson township; Mrs. Fred Binkley, Grover and Henry Schuman, of Richland township; two sisters, Mrs. Alex Ream and Miss Lydia Schuman, and five brothers, William, Joshua and John, all of Richland township; Dr. Q. LaRue Hummel, Whitley county's farm expert or county agent, arrived with his family in the city Saturday evening from his former home at Delphi and plunged into his work Monday, accompanying Dr. Roy Clark to the Worth Norris farm in Richland township, where cholera has visited a herd of 150 hogs, and where vaccine treatment was given.

Judge Wiley arrived from Albion Monday to begin the adjourned April term of court. The exceptions to the current report of the John Huffman estate was heard, and the partition suits of Stout vs. Ott and Crowell vs. Crowell were dismissed, as was also the case of Grister vs. Johnson, on account.

Dr. O. W. Grister, located at the Great Lakes training school for the past six weeks, wrote his parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Grister, Sunday that he has received a commission as lieutenant in the naval medical service. The husband, a son, Walter, of Chicago, and a daughter, Mrs. Frances Seabold, of Plymouth, survive. The funeral occurred Tuesday.

The twenty Arnold (Troy township) road bonds totaling $8,842 were sold Monday afternoon by County Treasurer Forrest S. Deeter to the German-American bank of Fort Wayne for $9 premium with accrued interest.

William Shively fractured his arm Sunday while cranking his auto, and Dr. F. G. Grister set the injury.

While en route home from North Manchester the car occupied by Quincy Osborn, Miss Margaret McCuen, Ralph Jackson, Misses Katharine and Irene Smith and Dorothy Mosher turned a double fliplop and landed upright in the road unhurt. The passengers luckily escaped injury. The car was towed into North Manchester for repairs.

SELECTIVE DRAFT STILL HELD UP BY THE LOCAL DELAYS

War Department Officials Believe No Drawing Can Be Had Earlier Than Week's End.

MOST OF THE DISTRICTS HAVE COME IN

Washington, July 16.—On the basis of advices today from various states where the organization work of the exemption boards has not been completed, war department officials said the drawing for the army selective conscription hardly could be held before Saturday at the earliest.

Fifteen states have not reported the completion of their exemption board organization. Numerous districts in all of those states have finished, however, so it is impossible to tell just when the final report is to be expected.

The process followed by the boards is to file two copies of their completed and numbered lists of registrants as soon as the serial numbers have been arranged. One copy is mailed to the

WANT PEACE TO COME TO THEIR BLEEDING LAND

Amsterdam, July 16.—It is reported from Vienna that the German and Bohemian members of the upper and lower houses of the Austrian parliament have adopted jointly a resolution setting forth their desire for peace within the country and the possibility of living side by side with the Czechs without abridgement of the "national self determination" of both elements.

The resolutions say, however, that a separate Bohemian constitution would not be recognized.

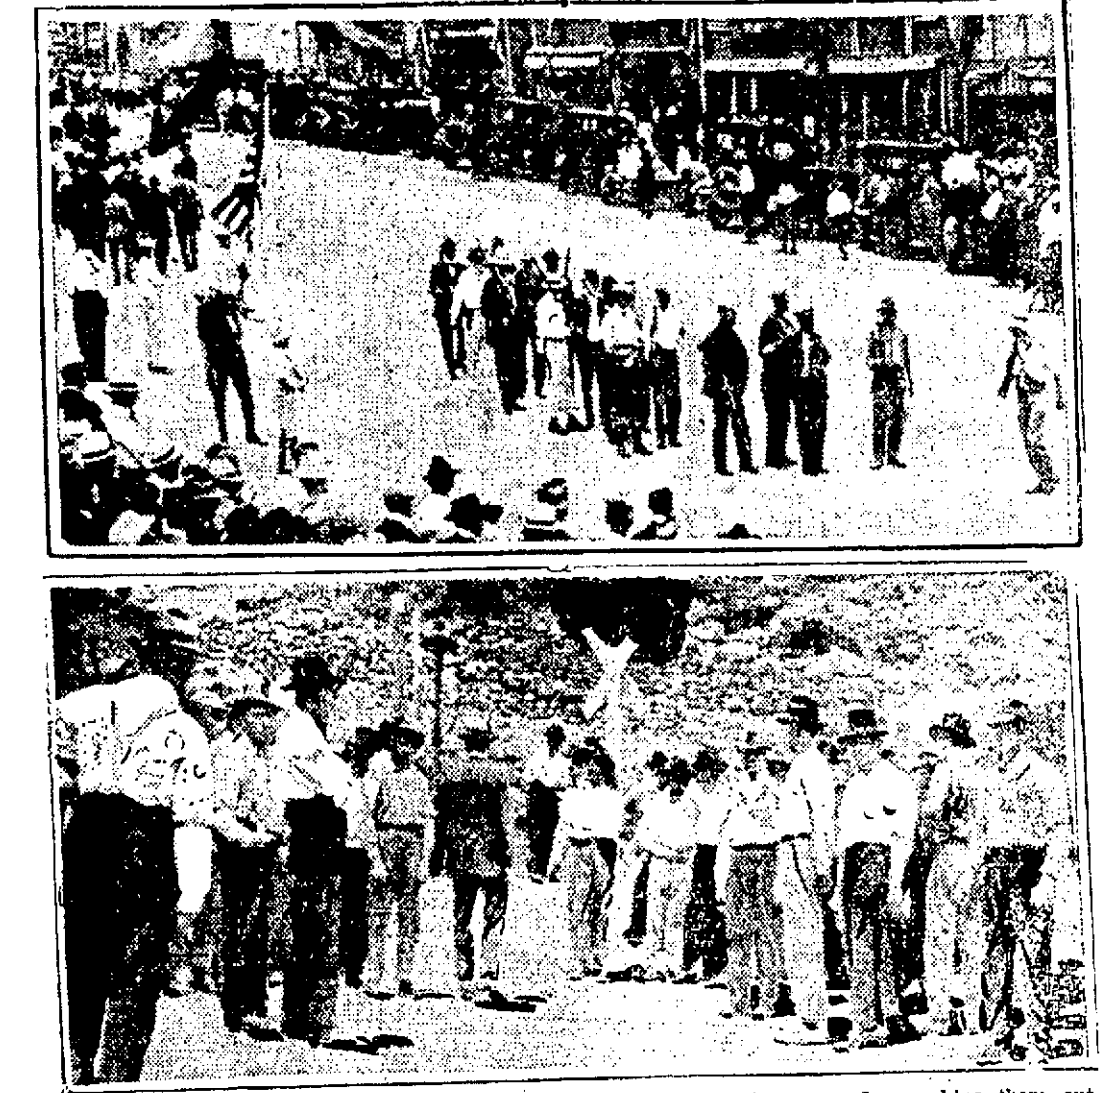

The adoption of this resolution evidently was prompted by the increasing unrest among the Czechs, an independent element of Austrian population. They are reported to be out of sympathy with the militaristic policy of the Germans in Austria.

RACIAL WAR YET SERIOUS

Situation in Missouri's Lead Region Remains Quite Grave.

SUNDAY PASSES WITHOUT BLOOD

Absence of Violence Not Due to Spirit, But the National Guard.

Flat River, Mo., July 16.—The situation in the lead belt of southeastern Missouri from which American born miners have driven hundreds of foreign born workers during the last two days, was still serious today, in the opinion of the civil and military authorities here. No violence occurred Sunday but twenty men were arrested on charges of carrying concealed weapons or looting homes of evicted foreign born miners.

Good Order Due to Troops.

The peaceable disposition of the crowds yesterday, officials said, was probably due largely to the presence of the Missouri national guard and the conciliatory work of State Labor Commissioner Lewis. Federal agents have arrived but will do nothing more than keep a watch on the general situation, it was announced.

Another panic was caused at Bonne Terre last night by the arrival of a committee of American born miners from Flat River who organized about fifty young men and marched into the foreign quarter, discharging firearms. Father Tim Sevik, a Roman Catholic priest who was returning a visit among the foreigners, attempted to argue with the dele-

MOBILIZING THE GUARDS

Work of Federalizing the State Militia for War is Under Way.

CONCENTRATING IN HOME CAMPS

Some Divisions Will Start for France Soon After August 5.

Washington, D. C., July 16.—Mobilization of the national guard for war service began today. While no orders for embarkation of state troops for France will be given until after August 5, when the entire force will be formally drafted into the United States army, there are indications that some divisions will be regarded as ready to board transports soon after that date.

The first clause of President Wilson's proclamation providing for the federalization of the national guard for the war became effective yesterday. Under it all guard units from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota and Nebraska, went on the federal payroll from that date.

Actual concentration of troops in their home armories or state camps began today. Approximately one-half of the total strength of the national guard or more than 125,000 men is included in the force assembling.

The first step in their preparation has been to send to the armories additional clothing for their trip to the

ITALIAN ENVOYS BACK HOME FROM UNITED STATES

Rome, July 16.—The Italian war mission, headed by the Prince of Udine, which returned from its visit to the United States, yesterday called on Premier Bosillo and gave a highly satisfactory report of the trip to America and the arrangements made there. The Prince of Udine brought with him a message from President Wilson to King Manuel in reply to one sent by the king.

The members of the mission, who are in a position to appreciate the feeling in the United States concerning the case of Alfredo Cocchi, murderer of Ruth Cruger, are urging the government to permit the extradition of Cocchi.

The mission maintains such action would strengthen Italy's popularity in America and would be in accordance with the spirit, if not the letter, of the Italian penal code.

REICHSTAG TO PUSH PEACE RESOLUTIONS WHEN IT ASSEMBLES

Copenhagen, July 16.—The reichstag's proposed peace resolution, which, according to the Berlin Tageblatt, a majority of the bloc of the center, radicals and socialists decided Friday evening to introduce unchanged upon the re-assembling of the reichstag, reads as follows:

"As on Aug. 4, 1914, so on the threshold of the fourth year of the war the German people stands upon the assurance of the speech from the throne—'We are driven by no lust of conquest.'"

"Germany took up arms in defense of its liberty and independence and for the integrity of its territories. The reichstag labors for peace and mutual understanding among the nations. Forced acquisition of territory and political, economic and financial violations are incompatible with such a peace."

"The reichstag rejects all plans aiming at an economic blockade and the stirring up of enmity among the peoples after the war. The freedom of the seas must be assured. Only an economic peace can prepare the ground for the friendly association of the peoples."

"The reichstag will energetically promote the creation of international judicial organizations. So long, however, as the enemy governments do not accept such a peace; so long as they threaten Germany and her allies with conquest and violation, the German people will stand together as one man, hold out unshaken and fight until the rights of itself and its allies to life and development are secured. The German nation united is unconquerable."

"The reichstag knows that in this announcement it is as one with the men who are defending the fatherland; in the heroic struggles they are sure of the unyielding thanks of the whole people."

WOULD TAKE 415 DAYS
TO LAY OUT PENALTIESSuit Case Thief Gets Real
Jail Sentence of 180 Days.

More than a year would be required to lay out the penalties which Judge H. W. Kerr imposed in police court, Monday morning. Nearly all the findings were in small amounts. Seven prisoners from a long and sorry array escaped the sentencing streak of the judge.

Arthur Jones, 30, colored, suffered most. He had been arrested by Detective Sergeant Joseph Freeman on a charge of stealing a suitcase from a railroad man. It was the second appearance of Jones on that same complaint. He pleaded guilty to the charge. He was fined $20 and costs and sentenced to 180 days at the state farm. Since he has no money for the fine he will be in confinement 200 days.

Did Not Pay. Skelton found that he did not gain by protesting the charge made against him on Saturday. He had demanded the presence of high officers to prove that he was guilty on a drunk charge. The officers appeared and requested that the charge be changed to larceny. Skelton was convicted and fined $25 with a thirty day jail sentence attached.

What's the Use. Sabar Smith, farmer, living six miles from Fort Wayne, was charged with leaving his auto stand near a fire plug on Saturday. He fought the case. His attorney claimed that the restricted district was not properly marked. Smith stated that he was in a hurry and did not leave his car stand long. He was fined $5 and costs.

Joe Colony, charged with passing a street car when the car was discharging passengers, will be tried on Saturday.

Is Not Sure. Judge Kerr is not sure whether an exemption from registering from draft would be maintained if a young man joined Battery I just before registration day. That is what Verno La Pierre did and he is not registered. The young man is turned over for investigation before Federal Commissioner Logan.

Flirted With Money. John McGilton, 40, took a position in the alley near 610 Clinton street, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Loraine, who rooms near the alley, says that he waved a dollar bill at her when she appeared at her window. She called the police and had McGilton arrested. He was fined $10 and costs.

Other Police Court Cases. Robert Younghaus has been contributing small amounts toward his wife's support. He has not been delinquent to the extent that he could be sentenced on such a charge, however, Judge Kerr announced. The judge asked that the family difficulty be settled out of police court.

Cases of public intoxication were: Frank Young, fined $1 and costs; Steve Howard, third conviction, fined $50 and sentenced to thirty days in jail; John Cristlieb, $5; Peter Naidemeyer, $5; Tom O'Brien, $5; Frank Russell, $5; John Donahue, $5; Jacob Smith, $1; and Oscar Sailer, $1. Charles Clark of Warsaw, John Laughlin and William Culp were released.

Reginald Taylor, colored, charged with train climbing, seems to be of draftable age. He is not registered for conscription. Commissioner Logan will investigate the case.

Joseph Parker, 24, is not signed for draft. He does not read. He will explain matters to the federal commissioner.

WHERE LUSITANIA'S
VICTIMS ARE BURIED

Graves in Queenstown Cemetery Neglected, Though Memorial May Come.

Queenstown, July 5.—(By Mail.)—The newest memorial to be placed on the graves of the Lusitania victims is an artificial bouquet of flowers enclosed in a glass case which also contains a woman's photograph and small marble cross with the inscription: "In memory of my dear wife, Margaret Butler, drowned on the Lusitania. Vengeance is mine saith the Lord. I will repay."

This and three rough mounds of earth virtually are all that mark the resting place of more than a thousand persons who perished May 7, 1915, when a German submarine stunned the world by sending to the bottom of the ocean, twenty-three miles from here, the first trans-Atlantic passenger steamship to be sunk by a torpedo.

There is a movement on foot to erect a great monument over these graves, but it is not likely to bear fruit until the end of the war.

Plan Suitable Memorial.
A high official of the Cunard steamship company, owner of the ill-fated Lusitania, visited the graves recently and deprecated the fact that they are so neglected. He told the veteran town clerk, James Campbell, that he is making a report to his company, with the view of co-operating with the British government for a suitable monument, but expressed doubt if anything could be done in the midst of this war. Officers and men from American craft now on British waters also have made long overland pilgrimages to the graves and have given hearty support to the movement.

A correspondent of the Associated Press who a few days ago, visited the burial place in a local cemetery which is situated in a green wood on the cliffs behind this picturesque town, grass growing a foot high over the three mounds making as many huge graves, the largest containing seventy bodies and the others fifty and twenty-seven victims of the German submarine. The town clerk apologized for the neglect, saying it was allowed to grow until July 1, to enable the poorly paid caretaker to procure hay therefrom.

Forbid Removal of Bodies.
The town council has just denied a request made by the relatives of Miss E. A. Seacombe, of Peterborough, New Hampshire, to allow her body to be disinterred for burial in the United States on the ground that it is detrimental to the public health. It develops that the town medical authority has been busy ever since the catastrophe in declining requests made by relatives of the victims in America and other countries. The cemetery is seldom visited by any of the townspeople who shun it, because it brings back awful memories of the heart-breaking scenes enacted on that fateful May 7, two years ago. As showing the sentimentality of these people townspeople, it is interesting to note that the town hall which was turned into a temporary morgue on that occasion has never been occupied by any one since, except Campbell, the town clerk.

Keep Away From Town Hall.
"People who used the town hall as a market place where they sold butter, eggs and cheese, have never returned," said Campbell. "The treasury is set

FAMOUS GENTRY BROS.

SHOW ARRIVED SUNDAY

Two Performances Will Be Given Monday Rain or Shine.

The famous Gentry Brothers' circus is here. It arrived early Sunday morning for two performances Monday, rain or shine, starting on eastern time. There is probably no organization on the road that is held in higher regard than the Gentry Brothers' dog and pony show, due largely to the fact that it has always been clean and each year never fails to put up a performance that is creditable and well worth the admission fee that is charged. There is another reason. The show caters particularly to children. It is very frequently called the "children's show," although appealing to older folks as well.

Notwithstanding the occasional showers and the threatening clouds, a good sized crowd was down town to witness the parade, which had several new and unique features.

Hundreds visited the show grounds at Calhoun street and Packard avenue, Sunday. Arriving in the morning many saw the show unload, which is always a treat, and then followed the wagons to the grounds to watch the pitching of the tents.

The Gentry show is a Hoosier organization, being organized some years ago by the Gentry brothers, of Bloomington. For years the show traveled in four sections. In other words there were four shows on the road at the same time, appearing in different parts of the country. The show, however, has been combined, making it bigger and better than ever before.

ARM IS BADLY CUT.

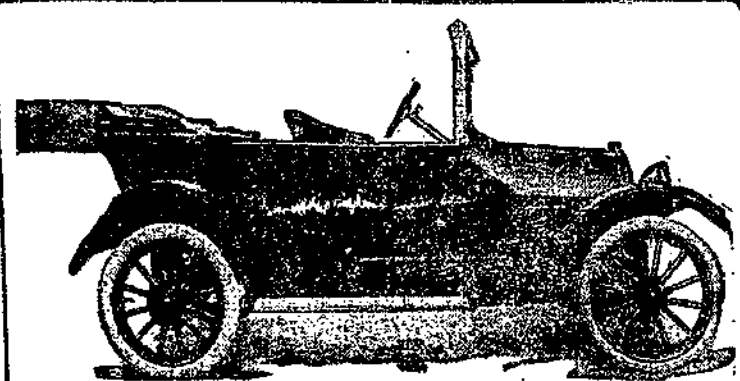

E. J. Telgman received three deep cuts across his left arm when he collided with a popcorn wagon, owned by Steve Morris, while riding his motorcycle, Sunday evening. The wagon stood near the corner of Hayden and Ohio streets.

Nome, Alaska, July 16.—Mrs. Esther Birdsal, of Darling, who sold many racing dogs to the French government, has received the cross of war won by Alaskan dogs for service at the front in transporting ninety tons of shells to an isolated post under fire through a blizzard that raged four days and nights. Announcement of the decoration was made here today.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

DREAM OF SECOND OIL BOOM BRIGHT

Citizens of Warren Will Turn Out This Week to See New Well Shot.

Warren, Ind., July 16.—Warren's never dying dream of a second oil boom for the little city is brightening with the show of oil in the well being drilled by Milton Anderson, just east of the town. The drill tools were found to be coated with oil on Saturday morning, giving promise of a heavy flow of the liquid. The partly drilled well was made the mecca of Warren citizens on Saturday, when news of the promise of an oiliferous well was carried to the town and the flame of hope in another oil boom was fanned by the hopeful report.

The well will be shot later in the week. The village of Warren will turn out en-masse for the shooting. It has been many a day since the report of the heavy well shot charge shook the Huntington county neighborhood. If the well proves the success hoped for other drilling will be carried on in the neighborhood. Oil men state that wells of light yield will pay at the present due to the high price of the oil product.

RETRIAL OF FISHBACK.

Hartford City, Ind., July 16.—The second trial of William Fishback on the charge of murdering Roy E. Brown, the Redkey grocer, who was killed on the night of January 29, 1916, began today. The jury disagreed on the first trial. The defense expresses its confidence of being able to obtain the acquittal of Fishback, while the state is just as certain that it will be able to make a case sufficiently strong to bring about a conviction.

With the supreme court ruling Thursday admitting Ray Landess to bail, three of the defendants in the Brown case are now at liberty through habeas corpus proceedings. Landess was jointly indicted with Fishback by a Jay county grand jury for the Brown murder. He filed proceedings to gain his liberty under bond, and Judge McGriff, of Portland, ruled against him. In an appeal the state supreme court reversed Judge McGriff. Previously, Weldon May and Mont Deiken, charged with the murder in affidavits filed in the Jay circuit court, had successfully attacked the legality of the affidavits which were held invalid by Judge McGriff, who ordered the two men released without bond.

A special venire of fifty names has been drawn for jury service at the second trial. The outcome will be awaited with interest by the residents of Richland township, Jay county, and especially by the people of the little town of Redkey.

KILLED IN SAWMILL.

Ira Miller, Hicksville, Struck by Flying Timber and Dies.

Hicksville, O., July 16.—Ira Miller, aged fifty years, died Saturday afternoon from injuries sustained when he was struck by a plank in a sawmill in this city. Miller had placed the plank in position to be sawed when it struck an obstruction and was hurled backward with terrific force, striking him on the head. He suffered a fractured skull and died two hours later. He leaves a child and the widow. A year ago Miller lost a hand when it was caught in a corn shredder.

HAD PLANNED ESCAPE.

Plans of Nine Prisoners Foiled by Sheriff's Wife.

Van Wert, O., July 16.—But for the wife of Sheriff Gunsett, of this city, nine prisoners of the county jail would without a doubt be enjoying freedom today. Sunday afternoon Mrs. Gunsett saw pieces of mortar falling from the upper tier of cells. She investigated and found that the prisoners were planning an escape. Two bars had already been sawed. It is believed that the saws were furnished by friends. An investigation is being made.

FINALLY ARRESTED.

Kendallville, Ind., July 16.—E. L.

Taylor, wanted two years ago by officials at Dayton, O., for non-support of his child, has been arrested by local police. Taylor was a resident of Kendallville two years ago when a warrant was received for his arrest, but before local police could apprehend him Taylor disappeared. Last week Officer George Cunningham recognized Taylor, who was working as a canvasser with the Guy Stock company, a theatrical company. He communicated with the Dayton police who, in a telegram, ordered Taylor's arrest. Officials from Dayton have taken Taylor in custody.

Three Local Youths Topple Into Water But Are Rescued.

Rome City, Ind., July 16.—R. Cassidy, W. Bodey and E. Weltzman, all of Fort Wayne, fell into the water in Sylvan lake at this place Sunday afternoon while out canoe riding. The canoe became overbalanced and turned over, throwing the occupants into the lake. The trio were rescued by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Schwarz and Harry Glusenkamp, also of Fort Wayne. The three young men left for their homes Sunday night.

Huntington, Ind., July 16.—Backed by members of the four railroad brotherhoods, and by members of the socialist party in Huntington, a corporation has been formed to operate a co-operative store, which will be opened about August 1. There are now about 360 stockholders, who are limited to ten shares at $10 each. Discounts will be given to stockholders.

WOMEN WERE NOT SURPRISED.

Huntington, Ind., July 16.—Women suffrage leaders in Huntington, who had just completed a poll of the women in the city of Huntington, and the five clerks of the county registration board, as well as other persons interested in the proposed constitutional convention, were not surprised at the decision of the supreme court. "Look at the day they picked to make the announcement," they chorused. "What else could you expect on Friday, the 13th?"

JUDGE LAFOLLETTE ILL.

Portland, Ind., July 16.—Judge John F. LaFollette, one of the prominent attorneys of this city and for years judge of the circuit court, is critically ill at his home, on East Main street. A trusted nurse is in charge of his case. Judge LaFollette is suffering from pernicious anemia and little hope is entertained for his recovery. Last fall Judge LaFollette was appointed district chairman of the republican party.

Decatur, Ind., July 16.—Wesley J. Cully, retired hardware merchant of Willshire, Ohio, is dead after a several years' illness of anemia. He was born March 13, 1858. Mr. Cully is survived by the widow, who was formerly Miss Jane Hurless. There are several brothers, among them being Adam Cully, lately of Geneva, Ohio, and Jeff Cully, of Willshire, Ohio.

MONDAY, JULY 16, 1917.

HOUSE SETS AN EXAMPLE.

With a diligence and unanimity that tend to amaze no less than to gratify, the house has passed the bill appropriating $640,000,000 for a stupendous airplane program. There was practically no noise-making and there was no division at all.

This is so contrary to the precedents, in such contrast with the incalculable waste of time that has been for the most part the rule in dealing with the various legislative matters relating to the war, and so conspicuously an example if not plainly a hint to the senate, which is still drooling and pulling over the food control bill, it is to be hoped the country may take note approvingly of the conduct of the house.

It was in the chamber of the house not many years ago that statesmen, solemnly wise and profoundly conscientious in their stewardship of the people's money, stood up and denounced as fatuous folly and wilful waste any further expenditure of public funds to finance Prof. Langley's experiments with airplanes. The air was not man's element, they thundered with congressional ponderousness, and he never would conquer it. It was chimerical, vain and foolish to suppose that he could and a sinful dissipation of revenues to put any more of the nation's cash into the ludicrous experiments of an old man whose head had turned with the zeal of his dream.

Not many are left of the congressional sages who raised that reek of narrowness and stupidity. Those who yet remain to grace those historic halls with their imagination and their ideals of progress have seen what came of the doddering old Smithsonian professor's visions and hallucinations. Within a decade and a half of the day in which they lifted their protesting voices against the Langley experiments, they vote well on to three-quarters of a billion in unbroken bulk to finance the Langley idea as the one promising expedient by which democracy is to triumph over autocracy in the greatest war of all time.

We trust the readiness and unanimity of the representatives in passing the airplane appropriation bill stand for the token that the house wholly believes in the efficiency of the means proposed for crushing a ruthless enemy and that it does not in any wise nor to any degree represent a subtle desire of that body to get rid of a great matter easily by passing the buck to the senate in well-justified faith that the upper branch may be safely trusted to pass nothing that it can destroy with its breath or defeat by obstructions. No unkind intimations are borne by this suggestion. We hope our doubt is foolish and our fear wholly misplaced.

To the merit of the thing itself words can do but a poor measure of justice. It means, if the senate shall acquiesce, that supremacy in the air is to be taken by America, which gave the airplane to the world, and it means also that the most powerful of the quickly available weapons against autocracy is to be turned upon the enemy. The amount of money appropriated seems prodigious, but if it will turn the tide and rule the fate of war, it becomes a mere bagatelle.

A WORK TO BE KEPT GOING.

The sincere friends of constitutional reform in this state will bring their repining to an early end and waste little of their effort of breath upon criticism of the supreme court's decision that knocked out the law for a convention to revise the organic law of the commonwealth.

They have had a great shock of disappointment. They have seen their cherished plans, that to all seeming had been near realization, made a wreck and the labor of years brought apparently to ruin. But nothing is lost save time. It is going to take somewhat longer to bring about what it was the expectation to have brought to fruition early next year and there will have to be the doing over again of much work that it had been believed was made an end of. That is the historic course of political reforms and advancements.

We believe the promoters and leaders of this movement will find their new portion of work just made necessary to be much easier than heretofore. Public expectation has been awakened by the preparation of foot to deal at the polls with the arrangements and public interest has been sharply focused on the work of making a new constitution. There is a big asset in this that will be realized when the question of voting on the proposition to hold a convention comes forward again, as it will. Three years ago when the people of the state failed to give the needed majority to a similar proposition their failure was due greatly to a default of interest in it. There had been little public discussion of the proposal and thousands of votes were lost to it not by reason of antagonism to the purpose, but wholly from ignorance that it was forward to be voted upon or from indolence of spirit concerning it. There is today no such widespread ignorance of the purpose to put an end to the constitution and there is no such indifference of spirit to the doing of the work. The women of Indiana have a newly created and positive interest in this movement. Only through the success of it can their political equality, partially set up by the last legislature, be made complete. The women of Indiana will do much to carry forward the supplementary movement that has become necessary.

The way may be opened to an early submission of the question of a convention to the people, but even if that should not fall out, there is little reason to doubt that the next regular session of the legislature will promptly enact necessary measures to that end. And, whether soon or late, there is but one verdict probable when the people are given another chance at the question. The supreme court's decision can hardly have failed to impress the citizenship of Indiana that there should be revision of the constitution at least to the extent of making revision itself a thing of reasonably practicable political effort by the people.

BEHIND THE CURTAIN, WHAT?

What is going on behind the almost impenetrable curtain that conceals Germany's internal social conditions and political affairs from the world outside can at best be only inferred. That the government is undergoing changes of personnel is known. How far that predicated changes of policy or the rising of popular sentiments that cannot be ignored, must be guessed at. Certainly something of vast consequence and grave portent is proceeding to cause the kaiser to belie Germany's consistent boast that of all the great powers in the war his government is the sole example of unity and steadfastness.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg has resigned the chancellorship. That is known. It was a persistent rumor for several days before the news of it was acceptably verified. Dr. Georg Michaelis, the first man to come up from the mass to the chancellery of the German empire, is the kaiser's choice for the vacated place. Just what that may exactly mean will not be disclosed until the new chancellor shall have uttered his salutatory in the reichstag, an event for which the stage will be set late this week. Meanwhile, a majority body in the reichstag has approved a resolution for introduction that declares peace terms must be on a basis of no annexations and no indemnities. That ought to furnish the new chancellor plenty to give historic mark to his induction into his great office and it may bring the pan-Germans into position where the throne and the war party will have to accept the challenge or give in. It is not likely that the kaiser, with the tide of democracy rising within his realm as it has risen about him without will care to have the dynasty put to too stern a test just at this time. Germany needs all her resources, material and moral, for the war.

Many speculations are incited and much hope encouraged by the turbulent political state of Germany. The German people seem to be on the eve of a glowing opportunity to greatly liberalize if not positively to democratize their nation and its government. It will be much a pity for them if they shall slumber past the struck hour for their emergence into the light of freedom and to participation in the privileges of democracy.

But the thing is going forward in Germany. Enough comes out of the country to indicate that. And much more may be in progress than the outside world has been given any opportunity even to suspect. Russia overturned so suddenly that it amazed the world. What the sudden hordes of Russia made out to achieve surely is not beyond the contrivances of German intelligence, education and mass power.

Any reason there may have been to doubt the good faith of the new Russian offensive is disappearing as fast as good fighting can make it.

Indiana's constitution, it appears, is one of those perfect things that there is no way to change or improve.

THE RISING TIDE

THE KAISER IS FEELING THE PINCH OF AMERICAN RUTHLESSNESS IN FOODS

(By H. N. RICKEY.)

Uncle Sam's grip is tightening around the kaiser's throat.

Your uncle is about to demonstrate that there is more than one kind of ruthlessness.

The particular kind of ruthlessness with which he is going to answer the kaiser's bloody kind is expressed by the rather harmless sounding word "embargo."

President Wilson has proclaimed to the world that after July 15 no commodity that is essential to the making of war may be shipped from this country to any other country without license.

This means that no licenses will be granted for the export of a ton of food or material that can by any possibility find its way to Germany.

First the necessities of the people of the United States will be considered, next the requirements of our allies. If there is anything left, the neutral nations will be allowed to purchase it, but only in such quantities as are absolutely necessary for their own use.

It will be up to the neutrals to prove what their necessities are and to give such guarantees as will satisfy the president that there will be no transshipment to Germany.

The president's embargo proclamation is by far the most important action this government has taken since it declared war against Germany. Our military preparations are of course vital but they cannot possibly be effective for many months.

The embargo hits Germany now, and hits her in her most vulnerable spot—her stomach. There is not the slightest doubt that millions upon millions of tons of food and other materials have been leaking into Germany from the United States through the neutral countries contiguous to Germany.

So long as this continued the effort to bring Germany to her knees by economic pressure was bound to fail.

Yet the embargo policy involved men, Kuttner says, must be protected against "wage cutting, refusal of employment and unemployment."

The Munich Post and the Cologne Volkszeitung, underlined by the censor, have entered on a curious competition. The former says:

"The Cologne Volkszeitung has hit on the brilliant idea of organizing a national plebiscite on war aims."

"The paper does not, however, confine its propaganda to the civil population, but addresses itself directly to the soldiers at the front, who are requested to forward the expression of their sentiments by the field post to the Volkszeitung."

"We will go one better than our Cologne colleague, and address the following circular request to all our readers at home and on the front: 'For an immediate peace the undersigned declares his approval.'

OAT BREAD.

(Baltimore American.)

Here is a fact which should be impressed upon the attention of the propagandists who are preaching food economics, and, likewise, upon the attention of frugal housewives the country over. Wheat for September delivery was quoted in Chicago around $1.75 the bushel, and corn for September around $1.42 and oats for September around $2 cents the bushel. There is in prospect a yield of oats this year that will top the highest previous year record.

Kansas has sent in a message of prospective 70,000,000 bushel oat crop, which will be 41,999,000 bushels greater than the yield of last year and 16,000,000 bushels greater than the yield of the previous high-record year.

It is practically certain that Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas will also have record-breaking oats crops and that this will be a high record year by from 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 bushels excess in the yield of oats.

Can good bread be made from oats? The answer is affirmative with a big stress on the yes. Oaten bread made upon much the same formula as wheat bread is delightful to the taste and highly nutritious. Wheat bread is largely a habit. Wheat is not the one and only bread grain. Most Americans are acquainted with the delicacy and charm of oaten mush. The oaten loaf is also good, wholesome and pleasing to the palate. There can never be a bread famine so long as there is a big oat surplus in the storage bins.

WOODEN COACHES.

(Railway Age Gazette).

The recommendation of the interstate commerce commission, repeated in its latest annual report, "that the use of steel cars in passenger train service be required," seems in a fair way toward being carried out without further effort on the part of the commission. Only three wooden cars for passenger service were built in 1916 and only ten wooden cars for passenger train service were under construction on Jan. 1, 1917.

The building of wooden passenger train cars has practically ceased. The bulletin of the special committee on railway operation shows that there were in passenger train service on Jan. 1, 1917, approximately 629 all steel cars and 673 cars having steel underframes. On Jan. 1, 1917, there were in service 15,754 all steel underframes, representing increases of 2,495 per cent and 812 per cent, respectively.

There are now in service 39,169 wooden cars in passenger train service, indicating a retirement of 8,937 wooden cars from service since Jan. 1, 1912, the date of the previous census. Of this number 2,213 were retired during the calendar year 1916. This record includes a total of 61,390 passenger train cars and covers reports from roads representing 235,406 miles of railway in the United States.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

Johnnie Miller, of Pontiac street, fell from a tree last evening, a distance of thirty feet, breaking his wrist and dislocating his ankle.

Walter Seavey made quite a record on his bicycle, making the run from here to Avilla, twenty-three miles, in one hour and three quarters.

Dr. Mary Wherry removed a broken needle from beneath the palmar fascia of the hand of Miss Dalton, who has been suffering for several days from the accident.

Druggist C. B. Woodworth suffers from a mangled foot received by having a cellar grate fall upon it. The toes were badly pinched and one bone slightly fractured.

The proposition to give the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western Railway company $150,000 in consideration of the company building their road and shops was defeated yesterday by an overwhelming majority.

The little daughter of ex-Councilman John Smith was attacked by a ferocious canine near the family home last evening and her limbs were badly lacerated before the animal was driven off. A physician cauterized the wounds.

Theodore Dodane entertained a few of his friends at his home, 92 Wells street, Thursday evening. Those present were: James Fitzpatrick, Tom Conroy, Edward Mungovan, of Kennesaw college, Julius Simon, L. Reed and Frank McEvoy.

Next Tuesday, Mrs. Allen Hamilton, of No. 13 Holman street, and her three youngest children, will leave for the Lake Superior regions, where they will remain until the first of September in the hopes that the climate will restore the lady to health.

John Dreibleiss, the real estate and abstract man, is making a wonderful improvement in his property at No. 17 Holman street. The interior is being rearranged, while the exterior, by means of handsome porches and decorations, will change the appearance of the house greatly.

Uncle Harry Talks About the Trouble in China

"Tell us about the trouble in China," said Joe.

"Very well," said Uncle Harry, smiling, and looking at his watch. "It's only half past seven, and if I talk steadily from now to Christmas or New Year's day, and no one asks any questions and if father doesn't interrupt us, I think maybe we can get half way through the story, which would bring us up to the year of, say, 1000 B. C. Are you ready?"

But instead of answering, Joe looked first at Uncle Harry and then at Helen and Jimmy. The latter two were, plainly, as puzzled as Joe. It was Helen who said:

"What do you mean, Uncle Harry, why can't you explain to us tonight?"

Then the serious look disappeared from Uncle Harry's face and he enjoyed a good laugh. Finally he said: "Of course I can, and will, gladly tell you about the trouble in China. What I meant by saying that it would take from now until Christmas to explain even half of the story to you, was that the trouble in China today is, in a way, the result of the many extraordinary things that have been happening in China during the last five or six thousand years, and the effect of all those things on the Chinese people."

"Hasn't China been a republic like the United States for a number of years?" asked Jimmy.

"Yes, in a way, China has been a republic," answered Uncle Harry. "The old Chinese empire, or rather the monarchical form of government, was overthrown in 1912. A republic was established by Dr. Sun Yat Sen and other leaders, and since then China has been governed by a president and congress. At least, there has been something like a republican form of government, and the Chinese people have been getting a few steps nearer to self government. But the Chinese republic has been very different from the American republic—because the Chinese people are very different from the American people."

"They speak a different language and have yellow skin; is that what you mean?" asked Joe.

"No, they're not the reasons—language and skin have nothing to do with it," said Uncle Harry. "Let me give you two word pictures, or word histories, of the two peoples, and then I think you will understand what I mean."

"First we will consider China. Up to within less than a century ago, the Chinese people—there are about 400,000,000 of them—lived for thousands of years shut off from practically all the rest of the world by mountains, the Great Wall along the northern border, and a sea coast much of which is rocky. For thousands of years they were ruled by emperors whom they worshiped and looked up to as kind of gods.

"On the other hand, the people of the United States are descended from the smartest and greatest liberty-loving people of Europe. Through newspapers, the telephone, the telegraph, and railroad and steamships, the people of the United States have had every opportunity to keep up with the times; try new plans for governing themselves and adopt the good ideas and discard the bad ones."

"Is that why China is having so much trouble and why the United States has been able to make more progress?" asked Jimmy.

"Yes, in a general way, that's the reason," said Uncle Harry. "China is like a boy who has grown up without ever having had an opportunity to associate with other boys. When he gets out among the boys he has to learn how to play. China is learning how to play the game of self-government. The revolution in 1912 that changed China from an empire into a republic was started and led by a number of the younger Chinese men who had been out of their country and around the world and thus learned what other countries were doing and how far behind the times their own country was. Most of those progressive Chinese live in the southern provinces of China and make their headquarters in Canton and several of the other big cities. They have done a lot to awaken and educate their people to new ideas. The men who have been trying to re-establish the empire are mostly in the northern part of the country and have their headquarters in Peking. They represent the old order—they believe in a monarchy."

"Do you think China will go backwards and become an empire again?" asked Helen.

"Nothing really goes backwards in this world—in the long run, everything goes forward," said Uncle Harry. "The world is fast learning that empires and rulers must rule themselves. It may take many years to awaken and educate a majority of the Chinese people, but now that they have taken their first step forward they must go ahead. China, like Russia, is destined to become one of the greatest nations of the world."

Editor's Note—Uncle Harry will be glad to answer inquiries, either in this column or by mail, provided letters are signed with the full name and address of the persons writing. The correspondents' names will not appear in the articles.

FOUR NEW CLASSES

START THIS EVENING

Home Care of Sick Popular
Work.

Classes in the home care of the sick and hospital work are proving to be one of the most popular branches of the Red Cross work. Eight classes have recently been graduated, and four more classes have been organized to start Monday night. All of these will be evening classes, each comprised of twenty women and young ladies. Many names are on the waiting list, and enrollments will be permitted as fast as accommodations at the headquarters on East Berry street will permit.

The work at Red Cross headquarters has been characterized during the past week by the eagerness of young girls to help. Saturday twenty-five children were at headquarters and accomplished a great deal in the snipping of fracture pillows. Special juvenile classes are to be organized in the near future, and the children will be given definite work to do. Many of them are young school children, anxious to employ their spare hours during vacation in some beneficial work.

The new shipping station on Calhoun street is being made ready for occupancy the latter part of the week, and supplies will soon be coming in from the 120 chapters of northern Indiana which are under the jurisdiction of the Fort Wayne central station.

Fort Wayne women are urged to assist as much as possible in the work at headquarters. There are always plenty of teachers on hand.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

Veteran of Civil War and Wife Enjoy Family Gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Cramer celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding on Sunday, July 15, at the residence of their daughter, Mrs. John Neher. Not only relatives, but many friends, including comrades from Union Veteran legion, No. 51, and members of the G. A. R. of this city, gathered to do honor to this aged couple.

Mrs. Cramer was Miss Augusta Miller before her marriage a half century ago. The gathering of Sunday was entirely an informal one and friends called to pay their respects and extend their good wishes, while a silk umbrella, a gift from the army association, was presented by Samuel S. Kelker, and a purse of gold was presented by the family. Among the children and relatives from away who were present were Mrs. John Neher, Mrs. John Kohl, Mrs. Joseph English and Mrs. William Rohyans, of Fort Wayne, and Miss Anna Cramer, of Chicago, daughters; Mathias F. Cramer, a son, who is employed as assistant foreman at the Pennsylvania boiler shop; Mrs. William Fattie, of Indianapolis, a granddaughter; Frank and Peter Barweiler, nephews, and their families, of Bluffton, and Joseph Buchtmann, a nephew, of New Haven.

Mr. Cramer has an excellent war record. He enlisted on April 12, 1861, in Company E, Thirtieth Indiana Regiment. During the battle at Shiloh Mr. Cramer was shot through the face and was left on the battle field as dead. Rescued later it was many days before he was out of danger, then Mr. Cramer was sent to Indianapolis and later was discharged from service. But as soon as he was strong enough Mr. Cramer entered the service of his

Points That Prove the Latest Design

BY BETTY BROWN.

A coat is always a coat, but its place in fashion's calendar is generally determined by certain small points of construction. This fall's garments are distinguished by the very deep armhole or sleeve cut with the loose kimono curve. Caracul plush is used in place of fur as a collar and banding material. It is also important for shoppers to note that the skirts of new coats reach to within four or five inches of the hems of the suit skirts.

country again, this time in Company K, 100th Indiana, known as the Persimmons regiment, and was with that regiment until the war ended, and he received his discharge in June, 1865. Among the guests on Sunday was Thomas B. Toomey, who with Mr. Cramer, are the only veteran soldiers of the original detachment which left Fort Wayne in 1861 in the Thirtieth Indiana regiment.

Women Should Help to Bear War Burdens

(BY RIDDY BYE).

Are you a heroine or a coward? Are you content to read about kitchen economies in wartime but never willing to practice them?

Human habits are compelling. Many a patriotic little woman reads and reads, and talks and talks, but she never does anything.

Habit compels her to feed her family the familiar foods even at wartime prices. That is just why the price boosters are so sure of their methods, just why they feel so safe.

Hundreds of families never eat rice. They state this with great pride, as if it were a proof of racial superiority. Many a wife whose husband earns $3 a day or less, has been feeding the family on potatoes at $4 a bushel.

This is a kind of cowardice. By such housekeeping methods the nation can lose the war.

And there are women who will not put up a single can of food this year. They never have done any canning, which is for them sufficient reason why they never should do any.

Cowardice again.

Perhaps those who will not can for economy's sake may be impelled to do so by sentiment. A woman may do her share of patriotic service by canning fruits and vegetables now to be sent as gifts to the soldiers in camp next winter.

Every extra can will count, one way or another.

And by all the rules of selective service, it would appear that every woman who ever puts on a kitchen apron is drafted for the great canning brigade.

She who does her share in this new army is a real national heroine.

Fine Gooseberry Pies

Use But Little Sugar

Gooseberries are in season now and are delicious for pies, sauces, trifles, tarts and biscuits. If they are prepared by the method given below, one-third of the sugar needed usually will be saved and the tartness to which many people object will be absent.

Gooseberry Sauce—Remove the blossom and stem of a quart of gooseberries. Put the berries into a wire basket or strainer and plunge into boiling water for two minutes, then remove and plunge into cold water. Drain and put the berries into a saucepan with two cups of cold water, and bring to a boil. Then add one and three-quarter cups of granulated sugar and boil twenty minutes, stirring frequently. This amount will make one pie in a seven-inch plate and one pint of sauce.

Gooseberry Pie—Line the plate with piecrust made as usual, and then sprinkle the dough with two tablespoons of flour. Put two and one-half cups of stewed gooseberries into the crust. Wet the edges with milk, cover and brush the top with milk, and bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes.

Gooseberry Trifle—The materials required are two cups of stewed gooseberries, one-fourth of a cup of pearl tapioca, one of water, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and six marshmallows. Soak the tapioca in the cold water for two hours. Then put it to boil in the top of a double boiler and boil until thick, adding salt. Then rub the stewed and sweetened gooseberries through a fine strainer and cook until clear. Pour the trifle into ice cream glasses when partly cool, and

WOMEN DIVERS OUTCLASS MEN; DIVING BEST SWIMMING THRILL

Miss Mahn Demonstrating the "Swan" and "Jack-knife" Dives

(BY MISS VALLEY MAHN).

Western Aquatic Marvel.

Diving is not hard to learn. Just enough courage to try the simple dives from a low spring-board will convince any athletically inclined girl of her ability to master them.

And when done right they are so interesting to watch and so fascinating to perform that once fairly started you will not stop until expert at this most thrilling sport.

The sensation of rising from the spring-board, of controlling and directing the body in the air, assuming the graceful pose and slipping into the water at the finish like a seal is indescribably enjoyable.

I do not understand why there are not more women that dive well. Perhaps it is because they have not had anyone to tell them how.

Women, because they are naturally so much more graceful than men invariably, when taught right, dive with finer form, beauty and grace. I cannot imagine a prettier picture than a well formed woman in doing the swan dive correctly.

Picture number 1 the jack-knife dive. The photograph explains it. With the idea of jumping straight up in the air, you spring hard on the board so as to get as much height as possible.

As you attain the greatest height, try to touch the toes with the hands. Then quickly raise the legs up straight so the body will be practically perpendicular. As in all dives, just before entering the water, extend the hands so they reach the water first.

Picture number 2 is of the swan dive. This pose is assumed when one jumps from the board. It is not changed until the hands are extended to enter the water at the conclusion of the dive.

In order to plunge in head first without bending the body, throw the lower half of the body skyward as you leave the board, just as though you were trying to jump up and land on your head without bending your back.

The swan dive is beautiful and simple, though to the spectator it appears extremely daring and difficult.

In my next article I am going to explain the "crawl." This is the stroke I used when I won the Carlon Wall trophy in the 1916 race across the Golden Gate at San Francisco.

decorate the top with marshmallows. Be sure to serve the trifle ice cold. If the directions are carefully followed, the gooseberries will attain a pretty pink color.

FACTS THAT ARE HANDY TO USE EVERY NOW AND THEN.

A very good furniture polish: Equal quantities of common wax, white wax and white soap in the proportion of one ounce of each to a pint of water. Cut the ingredients fine and dissolve over fire until well mingled. Bottle and label.

Soak the lamp wick in strong vinegar and dry it before you use it. It will then burn both sweet and pleasant.

If flat irons are rough or smoky, lay a little fine salt on a flat surface and rub them smooth and prevent them from sticking to anything starched.

When making common dresses buy ten cent corset covers and use them for lining. They fit well, wear well and are a great help in getting a good looking dress. Also in warm weather one can go without any corset cover.

To keep a refrigerator clean leave open a few hours, then wash with warm, soapy water, with ammonia in it, then rinse with cool, clean water. To keep starch from clinging to iron take and sprinkle a little salt on a piece of brown paper and rub iron over it before ironing.

To make kerosene lamps give a brighter light, try a teaspoonful of common table salt to each lamp of oil.

STRAIGHT LINES WILL

PREVAIL THIS AUTUMN. Fortune tellers in the fashion game say there will be no distinct changes from spring to autumn attire, and we care not so very much. If fashion gives us cunning new tricks of trimming and clever fabrics, we are grateful. The sure prediction is that straight lines will prevail, not only in skirts and suits, but in evening robes and separate coats as well.

Skirts of white satin or white shantung are the joy of midsummer. Worn with lingerie blouses they transform almost any good-looking girl into an angel of loveliness. Top off this costume with a sunshade of rosy-rose-pinkness and you have the angel placed in a setting of sunrise.

The textile people are pushing silk hard and every woman who is a patriot should purchase a silk frock instead of a wool one; wool is scarce, but the little silk worms don't know a thing about the war, and they go spinning on, the dear little sillies.

How To Overcome Foot Troubles

Unless a person has actually suffered with tired, aching, burning feet or painful corns or calluses, they cannot appreciate the misery that such afflictions bring.

Reports now show that over 90 per cent of the American people suffer from some form of foot troubles and modern footwear is said to be causing an alarming increase in this percentage. Therefore, the following should prove of special interest to readers.

Recently in the treatment of these foot troubles by patients using Lee-Mint, these distinctive features were noticeable. Tired, aching, burning and swollen feet invariably become cool, easy and comfortable after the first application, while in the treatment of corns and calluses, it was noticed that after a few nights' application the corn or callus had a tendency to loosen and in a short time could easily be lifted out with the finger—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in normal, healthy condition.

This, together with the fact that Lee-Mint costs little and is so easy and pleasant to apply—and is absolutely harmless—is no doubt responsible for the high endorsement given it by specialists as the surest, safest and most efficacious treatment for distressing foot troubles.

When you stop to consider that the simple, pleasant process of rubbing a little Lee-Mint on the foot at night will shortly rid one of every painful corn or callus, and will keep the feet cool, comfortable and rested even on the hottest days, it is easy to understand its great popularity and why it is now used in nearly every American household suffering from foot troubles is advised to give Lee-Mint a trial. There is nothing better.—Advertisement.

KAISER TREMBLES FOR HIS THRONE DREADING OLD PROPHECY BY GYPSY

London, July 13.—A gypsy's prophecy of the fate of the German empire is said to have worked so successfully as to cause the Kaiser to fear the end of his rule has come.

It is said in 1849, the Kaiser's grandfather, Prince William of Prussia, who had made himself unpopular during the Berlin revolution of a year before, was in Mainz, disguised as a civilian and attended only by an aid.

A gypsy woman addressed him as "Imperial Majesty" and offered to tell his fortune. Amused, because at the time he thought his chance of succeeding even to the Prussian throne was slight, the prince asked:

"Imperial majesty! and of what empire, pray?"

"Of the new German empire," was the reply.

"And when is this empire to be formed?" he inquired.

On a scrap of paper, the gypsy wrote 1849, added each of the four numbers to the year and obtained the total 1871.

"And how long am I to rule over this empire?" asked the prince.

The woman repeated the operation with the year 1871 and obtained 1888. Astonished by her confidence, the prince then asked, "And how long is this fine empire to last?"

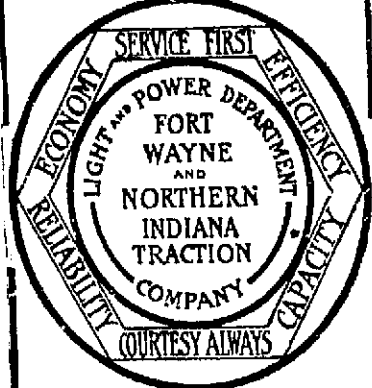

Again the woman performed the same operation, this time with 1888 and obtained 1913.

Sure enough, Prince William became German emperor in 1871 and died in 1888. And the year 1913 was the last complete year of the Kaiser's unchallenged supremacy.

It is said the effect of the truth of the prophecy thus far on the Kaiser's mind has caused him to fear its further fulfillment.

FAMILY MAKES ESCAPE THROUGH FIRE SHEET

Home of E. C. Crosby Burned With Loss of More Than $1,500.

E. C. Crosby, shipping clerk for the Western Gas Construction company, living at 1720 Lantz avenue, led his family through a sheet of fire to safety, early Monday morning when their home was virtually destroyed by flames. The blaze, which swept the frame house from foundation to garret and which spread damage to the extent of more than $1,500 is of unknown origin. The fire is supposed to have started in the kitchen.

Neighbors first discovered the blaze when they were attracted by the bright light of the rear of the house which was in flames. The entire community was soon aroused by the cries of "fire." A call was sent for firemen. Mrs. Crosby was aroused by the cries. She saw the flames creeping through the floor of the bed room. She awakened her husband. Gathering two of the three children in his arms while the mother caught up the other baby, the father led his family to safety through a sheet of fire, which marked the stairway.

The furniture had been partly cleared from the lower floor by neighbors. Firemen were delayed in reaching the scene of the blaze because of the condition of the avenue, which allowed the heavy vehicles to sink almost hub-deep in mud. The house was practically destroyed. The family is being housed by neighbors.

D. F. CRAWFORD IS COMING TONIGHT

General Manager of Pennsylvania Will Inspect Shops and Offices.

D. F. Crawford, general manager of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg, will inspect the local shops and offices tomorrow forenoon. He passed through the city in his private car on one of the west bound trains yesterday morning and has been looking after railway affairs in Chicago since. He will come here on train No. 8 this evening and stay over until noon tomorrow, when he will leave on train No. 40. Mr. Crawford spent several years of his railway service in Fort Wayne and is well known here. He was the motive power superintendent when the roundhouse was erected and was also here when the big erecting and boiler shop were built.

FATAL CROSSING ACCIDENT.

Two Young Soldiers Killed at Columbia City.

Harry Pinchon and Guy Moore, the former a member of the Albin infantry detachment, and Moore a member of Fort Wayne Battery B, were instantly killed on the line street crossing of the Pennsylvania road at Columbia City at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, when the Fort automobile in which they were riding was struck by eastbound Pennsylvania limited No. 2, which was behind time and was running about a mile a minute. If Barber, another young fellow, was riding in the rear seat and escaped by jumping over the back of the machine when witnesses of the approaching train gave a warning cry, knowing a collision was inevitable. Moore and Pinchon, who were in the front seat, also heard the cry of warning from the bystanders, but hadn't time to get out and were carried with the wreckage of the car a considerable distance down the track before the train stopped. Moore was dragged 300 feet east of the crossing and sustained a fractured skull, a broken leg and bodily injuries. Pinchon was carried 700 feet on the pilot and when the body was removed it was found that the top of his head had been caved in and both his arms broken. Barber said that they had been at Peabody and were coming home when the accident happened. They were running the automobile at the top of its speed, but when near the crossing Moore, who was driving, slowed down to about twenty-five miles an hour. Barber says the first intimation of danger of some people standing near the tracks. Moore was the son of a farmer residing near Columbia City. He was married and besides the wife, a baby daughter survives. Pinchon was the son of Jeff Pinchon, of Columbia City, with whom he made his home. He was unmarried. The line street crossing is a dangerous one and several accidents have occurred there. Last January Jacob Hawk and Clarence Ostell were killed when their auto truck was struck by a Pennsylvania train on that crossing.

PAID TRIBUTE TO DEAD.

B. R. T. and Auxiliaries Hold Memorial Exercises.

The memorial services of Fort Wayne lodge No. 13, B. R. T., Loyal lodge No. 55, Ladies' Auxiliary to the B. R. T., and Fort Wayne lodge No. 436, Ladies' Auxiliary to the B. R. T., held in Unity hall Sunday afternoon was a most impressive event. It is estimated that over 400 members of the three orders were present and H. B. Graham presided. The speaker of the day was Rev. A. J. Folsom, of the Plymouth Congregational church, and his address was a beautiful tribute to the departed, the greater portion of whom met death through accidents while in the performance of their duties. There were just ninety-two names of departed ones called, most of whom—eighty-two in number—were victims of accident. Yard Conductor Peter Collins, of the Nickel Plate, and Conductor F. E. Breeding, of the Pennsylvania, who are among the oldest members of the B. R. T., also made eulogistic remarks, reciting numerous deeds and virtues of the departed, with whom they were personally acquainted. As the names of the departed were called, wreaths of evergreen were deposited in the urn at the altar, which was heavily draped for the occasion. The responses on the part of the ladies were made by Mrs. Obenchain and Mrs. A. M. Brown, with Miss Vroman acting as musician for Fort Wayne lodge No. 436, Ladies' Auxiliary, and by Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Hayes, with Mrs. Imbody as the musician for Loyal lodge, Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 55.

MEAT CUTTERS' CONVENTION.

Local Members Advised That 500 People Are Coming.

News from all parts of the country indicate that the 1917 convention of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America will draw over 500 people to Fort Wayne and be one of the best conventions the national association ever held. The convention commences one week from tomorrow, July 24, and Fort Wayne local No. 423 is preparing to take care of the delegates and is arranging for a number of entertainments for them. Chief of entertainments will be a banquet at the Commercial club Thursday night, which will follow a sightseeing tour in automobiles, which in itself will be an interesting event because of the great many people and vast number of machines that will be in the parade. The opening session of the convention will be in the character of a general reception at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at which Mayor W. J. Hovey will deliver a welcome address.

There will be other addresses also, including one by C. M. Feltz, president of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor, one by H. P. Schwartz, chairman of the committee on convention arrangements, who will be a candidate for president of the national body. There will also be social events and theater parties galore and the local members will have a busy week. The business sessions will be held in Marchants hall in the Lau block, and convention headquarters will be the Baltes hotel.

BROKE ARM IN A FALL.

Frank X. Miller Victim of Accident Sunday.

Frank X. Miller will not be at his home in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop for several weeks as a result of an accident. While at the home of his daughter yesterday, he slipped and fell from the porch, fracturing his right arm between the shoulder and elbow. Mr. Miller, in point of service, is one of the old employees at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop.

LOST THUMB AND FINGER.

James Kile Has Hand Caught in Machinery.

James Kile had the misfortune Saturday morning to lose the thumb and second finger of his right hand. He was operating one of the machines in the punch press department of the General Electric works when his hand was caught in the gearing. Dr. Raymond Berghoff, the company's surgeon, took both thumb and finger off at the first joint. Mr. Kile is resting fairly easy and will soon be around as usual.

Section men between Hobart and Wheeler, on the Pennsylvania, discovered an automobile partly in the ditch just west of Brecker's crossing Saturday afternoon. A portion of the machine rested upon the rails in such manner that a train would strike it were one to come along. The men aided the owner of the auto to get it back upon the wagon read just in time to prevent a collision with eastbound passenger train No. 8. The automobile refused to respond to the steering apparatus when crossing the tracks and turned and plunged into the ditch. Nobody was injured.

News from Garrett indicates that the B. & O. company is making better progress towards filling vacant places with female labor than any of the other railroads hereabouts, though the Nickel Plate is a close second. A gentleman who visited the B. & O. shops Saturday said he saw a number of women at work, and was informed that there were ten on the shop payrolls at present. They are employed chiefly in the tool room and supply departments and seem to handle the work assigned them as well as the men whom they succeed.

C. W. MORRE IMPROVING.

Claude W. Moore, a foreman of one of the departments in the Pennsylvania paint shop, will soon be on duty again. He has discarded crutches and now gets about quite comfortably with the use of a cane. May 23, Mr. Moore had some of the bones of his foot crushed and has been unable to work since. He resides on Henriette street.

BOWSER FIREMEN SOCIAL.

The volunteer firemen at the plant of S. F. Bowser & Company will have a social at Reservoir park Thursday evening and have prepared to entertain a big crowd. There will be music and other attractions and the proceeds from the sale of ice cream, cake and other dainties will be turned over to the Fort Wayne Red Cross.

W. L. WILT HERE FOR A DAY.

W. L. Wilt, motive power accountant of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg, is in the city and will be here today and tomorrow, getting matters in shape for moving to Pittsburg. Mr. Wilt has not yet organized his clerical force at Pittsburg. He will need forty men and so far has secured only one.

FRED WALTERS RETURNS.

Fred Walters is presiding again at the Clinton street entrance to the Pennsylvania shops, after a two weeks' absence. Mr. Walters is the member of the advisory board of the Western and Chicago Terminal divisions of the Pennsylvania relief department and has just completed his quarterly trip over his territory.

GOING TO CALIFORNIA.

Mrs. Fred C. Schultz, widow of the Pennsylvania blacksmith, left today for California, where she will spend a good portion of the summer with relatives and friends. F. W. Schultz, her son, accompanied her to Chicago and will return tomorrow.

THEY HAD A GOOD TIME.

The members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers who went to Cedar Lake yesterday had the most of their time and it is the unanimous verdict that the outing must be repeated some time during the summer. There were over forty in the party.

MR. MUIR IN CHICAGO.

John J. Muir, superintendent of the mechanical department of the Bass Foundry and Machine company, went to Chicago this morning on business for the company. He will return tomorrow.

SELECT MATERIALS FOR STREET PAVING

Members of the board of public works selected the materials in a board session, Monday morning, for paving the eleven streets which are to be treated this summer. Contracts for the paving jobs will be let by the board Thursday night. Citizens living along the streets in question will have a voice in the paving materials to be used.

Brick will be used for paving Coombs, Osage and Wall streets. Bituminous concrete will form the coating for the other eight streets, Garden, Grace, Kinnaird avenue, Lake, Laselle, Webster, Liberty and Wildwood avenue.

RAIN CAUSES TROUBLES.

Mud Streets and City Parks Suffer From Many Showers. The pattering of intermittent showers which have passed over Fort Wayne in an endless procession during the past few weeks have rendered the unpaved streets of the city a veritable sea of mud. The board of works office is called many times each day by residents along the streets who ask relief from the impassable condition of the thoroughfares. Firemen were delayed in their attempt to reach a fire on Lantz avenue Monday morning because their heavy wagons mired in the mud.

The unending showers also make the grass grow. So rapidly has the verdure matured in the city parks that workmen have accomplished little beyond mowing grass during the past two weeks. The warm showers are good for the springing park flowers, but the soaked condition of the earth prevents transplanting of any of the posies.

LANDSCAPING FOR STATUE.

Superintendent of Parks Getz is employed in preparing landscaping plans for surrounding the Anthony Wayne monument in Hayden park. The plans will be submitted before the park board session on Monday afternoon. Even lines of shrubbery will be placed along the walks at the statue base. An elevated grass mound will lead up to the statue from the surrounding walks.

Getz is also completing plans for the wagon shed to be placed in Lawton park north of the greenhouse. The structure will be made largely from materials taken from buildings employed in the enlarging of Weisser park. The structure will be a story and a half high. It will house the band wagon, a road grader and two express wagons. The lot space will be used for storing park benches.

The matter of coating Rudisill boulevard will be decided by the park board members Monday afternoon. At the regular park board session will also be determined the total of the budget for next year.

WAR BRINGS MANY RUMORS

Some of Them May Be True, But the Most of Them Are Not.

ONE IS THAT AGENTS CIRCULATE GERMS

Another That Effort is Being Made to Corner Potato Market.

Many wild and altogether unreasonable rumors are being circulated at the present time. It always happens when a country is at war. However, there may be some truth in some of them.

One report that has gained wide circulation is that the spreading of leprosy and cholera germs, the former in court plaster and the latter in stock food, is being done by agents of Germany in this country.

A report from Auburn says: "There have been court plaster agents working in Auburn recently, nicely dressed fellows, too, people whom the Auburn housewives believed looked big and strong enough to be out helping the farmers with their farm work."

Farmers are advised to purchase stock food which they know is pure and which comes from reliable stock food houses, where there would be no chance to have it loaded up with disease germs of any kind.

Another rumor is to the effect that agents are going through Allen county in an effort to buy up all the potatoes possible. The purpose, it is stated, is to place these potatoes in storage, as was done last year, and then control the market, forcing the people to pay exorbitant prices, such as they have been doing for the past several months.

POLICEMAN DID NOT BRANDISH REVOLVER

Caused Stampede in Saloon by Showing His New Badge.

Police claim that men in the George Biemer saloon, East Berry street, were seeing things when they reported that Patrolman Vashon, newest officer on the force, brandished a revolver when he raided a card game in the place Saturday afternoon. Chief Lenz states that Vashon did not have a revolver with him at the time he was sent to the saloon to investigate a complaint about gambling in the place.

Vashon was told to arrest all men he caught gambling. The officer believed that money was changing hands when he saw a young man lay a bill on the table, at the rear of the saloon. The new officer stepped forward and displayed his star. There was a rush. All members of the card playing party fled, except a man who was caught in Vashon's grasp. The officer secured the money and a deck of cards from the table.

No charge could be made against the man who was taken to police headquarters by the officer as he denied gambling and Vashon could not swear that he was one who was playing at the table. George Biemer later visited police headquarters and announced that he intended to stop all card playing in his place of business. He is not thought to have had any knowledge of gambling in his saloon, if money was really being passed about.

MINES PREPARE TO OPERATE HEAVILY

Exiles Are in Wire Pen at Columbus, N. M., and Under Guard.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 16.—While armed civilian guards stood watch over the roads approaching this copper mining district to prevent any of the more than 1,100 men exiled from here last Thursday, from returning, the mine operators today prepared for operating their properties on a larger scale than any time since the strike last issued by the I. W. W. went into effect nearly three weeks ago.

Peace officers and leaders of the citizens' association which conducted the deportation last week reported that they had no fear of further trouble; that any men who wished to work would be welcomed in Bisbee, but that they would not tolerate the return of those they termed agitators, unless they were compelled to admit them by the federal government. The mine operators also said they were satisfied with the local situation and predicted that within a few days virtually full shifts of men would be working in all the mines. Reports from Globe, Miami and Clifton-Morenci districts where strikes are in progress were that of Sunday passed quietly.

EXILES ARE GUARDED.

Columbus, N. M., July 15.—The exiles from Bisbee, Ariz., settled down today to the routine of camp life under the direction of United States soldiers in the camp established on the site of the old Mexican refugee stockade and awaited whatever action the federal authorities would take on their appeal that they be returned to Bisbee, where some of them have small businesses and where many striking miners have families. The wives of some of the men have followed them to Columbus and are permitted to converse with them through the wire enclosure. Pending the installation of shower baths, which are to be put in today, the men have been bathing in the horse trough. A barbershop also is to be established in the camp.

Summary of the Day's War News

Although the movement of the Russian infantry engaged in General Korniloff's big offensive in eastern Galicia is being hampered by bad weather the Cossacks apparently have been able to keep up their dashing tactics. This is indicated by a report from Petrograd through Rome today that the town of Dolina has been occupied by Russian forces.

If this announcement proves accurate it means an advance of more than thirty miles for the Russians since the opening of the drive south of the Dniester a week ago. The official reports of this distance from their starting point, as Kaluz, taken by Korniloff's troops last week, is some twenty miles from Stanislaw, which virtually was their place of departure. At Kaluz the Russians were established on the western bank of the Lomnica, whence the Austrians had not been able to drive them, although heavy attacks had been launched in the attempt. The route thence to Dolina lies along the Stanislaw-Stryl railway line. An advance here means considerable progress in the movement now under way intended to throw Gen. von Boehme-Ermolli's army back against the Carpathians. The Rome reports, indeed, declare that this already has been accomplished.

The hard fighting that has marked the last few days along the French front in northern France still continues. Last night the Germans made a desperate attempt to regain the important observation posts they lost when the French on Saturday night took a strongly fortified position in the vicinity of Monthaut and the Teton in the Champagne. The attacking forces were able to make no impression whatever on the Teton positions and at Monthaut they recovered only a narrow foothold on the edge of the disputed ground.

The French, in local operations, made some progress south of Ailles on the Aisne front and repulsed several strong attacks near St. Quentin and south of Corbezy.

On the British front only raiding operations and artillery and airplane activities are reported.

CARELESS LADS DIE IN AGONY BY FLAMES

Brazil, Ind., July 16.—George Blankenship, 12, of Carbon, Ind., died early today as the result of burns he received when powder he and Fred Bendell, 13, of Indianapolis, had put in an old can exploded yesterday. Bendell died last night. The boys fished the can from a pond of water. They filled their pockets and put some in an old boiler. A neck was tossed into the boiler and the explosion which followed set fire to the clothing of the boys. They were burned fatally before help reached them.

MAKES ESCAPE FROM NEW COUNTY FARM

Thomas Besse, of New York State, Walks Away from the Barracks.

A young man who gave his name as Thomas Besse to officials made his escape from the new county farm Sunday afternoon shortly after dinner. Sheriff George W. Gillie was notified and Deputy Sheriff William B. Cole, aided by a party of men, searched for the man until about 11 o'clock Sunday night. No trace of him was found.

The prisoner had twenty days more to serve, being sent up from Fort Wayne on a charge of train climbing and loitering on the streets. He said he was from New York state.

He had gained the confidence of officials at the farm and had been made a trusty. At noon Sunday he was seen walking towards the woods. He did not come back and a search was immediately begun.

Luther Bourne, who says he was married to Helen Bourne some time this year, wants a divorce. He alleges that she has refused to live with him and that when the defendant deserted him this month she took all his money with her and left him penniless. He further states that she left him without good cause or reason.

CAN GOODS NOW, IS FOOD RELIEF ORDER

Now is the time to can garden products as well as fruits, say food relief workers. All spare beans should be preserved. No beans should be wasted. Every garden vegetable which cannot be used at present, should be put away for the winter days to come.

Food Expert Gray does not think that sufficient rain has fallen to destroy later garden crops. If little more rain falls the potato crop will not be greatly injured, Gray thinks. He does not believe the story that potatoes are rotting in the ground because of the continued wet weather. Potatoes which have been removed lately are firm and healthy, he says he has found.

ARCHITECTS OUT OF WORK

Building Operations Take Awful Slump in Fort Wayne.

66 PER CENT LOSS DURING PAST MONTH

Cost of Building Houses Has Increased Nearly Twenty Per Cent.

Architects of Fort Wayne are idle. Consequently sooner or later the contractors will also feel the slump in building operations. However, at the present time the majority of contractors are working on buildings, contracts for which had been let before the slump seized this city.

One architect stated Monday morning that "business was on the bum." He said that it was his opinion that there would be very little building done within the next few months. The high cost of building material was given as the cause.

It was his opinion that the building of residences and dwelling houses would continue, although not with such great favor as in other years. He stated that he knew of five cases himself where people had planned to build a house this summer, but had now given up the idea until the material prices get lower. The architect stated that the cost of erecting houses had increased at least twenty per cent, over last year.

During the month of June statistics show that there was a great slump in building operations in Fort Wayne. According to figures there was a loss of sixty-six per cent. During the month fifty-seven building permits were taken out and the cost of the buildings was estimated at $113,400, while during the same month last year seventy-seven permits were taken out, and the cost of the buildings was estimated at $335,575.

Reports from various parts of the country, said another local architect Monday, are that building has taken a slump except in cities noted for manufacturing. Many new factories are being erected and consequently dwelling houses.

The general opinion prevails that the slump will only continue for a few months at the most.

Many of the architects have been busy during the past few weeks. Although the plans were completed no contracts were awarded because bids were entirely too high.

GASOLINE HAS PART IN MORNING FIRES

Gasoline was responsible for two blazes Monday morning. The home of Ben George, 1025 Wallace street, was damaged when a gasoline stove overflowed at 9:30 o'clock. The kitchen floor and a part of the furniture in the room was burned. Loss is set at $50. A quantity of gasoline spilled on the floor and accidentally ignited by a falling match started a blaze in the home of C. Motte, 1623 St. Mary's avenue, at noon. Firemen were summoned. Damage was slight.

In these lessons the English sentence appears in the first line, the French equivalent in the second and the pronunciation in the third line. In the pronunciation key, straight lines over the letters A and U denote the long sound, as in "hate" and "hate"; curved lines over these letters denote the short sound, as in "hat" and "hut"; two dots over the U indicate a sound somewhat like the German "ue," which Americans may approach by pronouncing long U and long E at the same time. Cut out these lessons and paste them in your note book. The purpose here is merely to give the young men who may serve with the army in France such a knowledge of French as will make simple words known and some sort of friendly intercourse with French people and soldiers possible. No attempt is made to teach the grammar of the language.

Vandagriff and Essick Did the Friendly Act Yesterday

Chiefs Are First to Win But Black Sox Make It Even.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 16.—Just to start things out in a nice amiable manner the Fort Wayne Chiefs and Grand Rapids divided a double bill here yesterday. The visitors won the first game 5 to 2 and the Black Sox went home one better by coming back 6 to 1. Over 2,500 people saw the game, and the club has decided not to go into bankruptcy now. In the first game Kowalski took the mound for the Chiefs and outpitched three local slubmen. Horne started but soon gave way to Slattery, who in turn was hooked in favor of Carpenter. In the second Melter staged a comeback and defeated Higbee, both of them being touched for nine hits. The Chiefs got a good start in the initial game, Siegfried completing the circuit in the first inning and Breau in the third. Both of them came in with the ball but had hopes left them safe at the plate. In the fifth inning Siegfried hit, stole second, took third on a wild heave and trotted leisurely home when Harry Smith, the Chief's hard hitting backstop, doubled. In the meantime the locals had made one run. Breau looked big in the seventh inning when with one on he connected for a circuit smash and this was followed by the second Black Sox tally. Gloeckson hit in the eighth, swiped second, went to third on an out and counted on Kowalski's sacrifice fly. The locals, with Melter pitching, went into the second game with blood in their eyes. They started in the first inning and kept right on going until in the sixth they had marked up six runs. The first run was made on a double steal in which Mathes crossed the plate, Eddington taking second. Two more followed in the second, on walks, errors, sacrifice and a hit or two, and in the third the fourth run was made on a double, an out and a sacrifice fly. Nothing was done in the fourth, but the fifth and sixth each netted the locals a run, and then they decided to save them for the next day. Hoffman singled to start the visitors in the ninth and Gloeckson followed with a big double to the fence. Brown's sacrifice fly sent in the only run for the Chiefs.

CENTRAL LEAGUE.

Springfield, O., July 16.—Coffindaffer and Haines pitched the Springfield leaders to a double win over Richmond here yesterday, 7 to 0, and 6 to 4. Both Gilbert and Young, who started for Richmond, were walloped badly. During the game Walker hit for the hundredth time this season. Muskegon, Mich., July 16.—Peoria took the first game of a double header yesterday, 7 to 4, while the Muskies came back, taking the second, 3 to 1. Both clubs patted the pill in the first contest but in the second Wachtel held the visitors in control. Dayton, O., July 16.—Two big innings, one in each game of a double

FORMER BUSH LEAGUERS LEADING TEAMS IN FIGHT FOR AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT

Upward Dash of Indians and White Sox Shows Up Veteran Managers of Opposing Nines.

BY PAUL PURMAN.

It is very probable that two bush league managers will fight it out for honors in the American League. Clarence Rowland, manager of the White Sox, has his team whipped into shape to play consistent baseball. Lee Fohl, of Cleveland, has started a drive pennantward which should land him near the top of the heap unless accidents or unforeseen complications intervene. It will be interesting to see these two bushers fighting it out in the stirring baseball days of September. It would be a decisive argument against the old adage that no smart baseball comes from the minors. Neither Rowland nor Fohl had any major league experience to speak of before they took charge of the teams they now lead.

Rowland's early career was confined almost entirely to some minor league teams in Iowa, and Fohl managed teams in Akron and New England. Both were successful enough in the minor leagues, but were regarded as doubtful experiments when they took charge of the clubs in the majors. Rumor deprived each of his job time without number, but now they seem to be coming into their own.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES OPENED AT CLEVELAND

Nearly Three Hundred of World's Fastest Harness Horses Entered.

Cleveland, O., July 16.—The Grand Circuit races of the season of 1917 opened at the North Randall track today when the blast of a bugle announced the call for the 2:10 trot. While there have been heavy rains during the past week, it is said the track is in good condition and the entries comprise some of the fastest trotters and pacers of the harness race world. Nearly 300 horses are entered. The races will continue through Friday unless rain causes a postponement. Interest today was divided between the first division of the "Forest City" two-year-olds, trotting, two heats, $2,500 and the 2:10 pacing, "The Edwards" three heats, $3,000. The other events on today's card are the 2:11 trotting, three heats, $1,200, and the 2:06 pacing, three heats, $1,200. Seventeen two-year-old colts are eligible to start in the "Forest City," one of the big features of the meeting and the race was split into two divisions. "The Fasig," 2:19 trot for three-year-olds has twenty-two eligibles and will also be split into two sections. Boys, if you want the best hair cut that you can get in the city, come to PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO. MINISTER EGAN IS BETTER. BOWSERS STRENGTHEN THEIR HOLD ON LEAD Defeat Turners While the Railroaders Win from G. E. and Move Up.

Table with 5 columns: Clubs, Won, Lost, Pct. Rows include Bowser, Pennsylvania, Electric Works, Turners.

By defeating the Turners while the Pennsylvania club was winning from the General Electric, the Bowser club strengthened its hold on the lead in the Fort Wayne Industrial league Saturday afternoon. The game was the first of a double bill in which the leaders won 6 to 3, and the Railroaders were high 6 to 3. The Pennsy and G. E. clubs switched places in the standing, the former going into second place, two games behind the leaders. The Bowser-Turner game was close all the way and not until the seventh inning did the winners get the runs which put them in the lead. Even then the game was not clinched and the gym men kept the Bowserites on their toes all the way to the final out. Oestermeier opposed Grimes on the mound. In the second game Lankenau started for the G. E. but he had trouble pitching to lines and finally gave way to Archibald after whiffing ten men in less than six innings. The four runs by the Railroaders in the third led the game. The scores: Turners—AB. H. O. A. E. Wickman, lf. 4 1 1 0 0 Carr, 2b. 4 0 1 0 1 J. Henry, 3b. 4 3 1 1 2 Love, 1b. 4 1 8 0 0 J. KENDALLVILLE REDS WIN BOTH CONTESTS

Gleich is Big Figure in Visiting Club's Double Victory.

Kendallville had a great time wiping up the ground with Fort Wayne's semi-pros at League park Sunday. The Reds started out by making the Colored Giants look foolish to the score of 12 to 0, and finished the afternoon by touching two Lincoln Life hurlers for ten runs, while the Insurance men were making seven off of Wagner. A large crowd attended the game and the favor of the fans was about evenly divided in the last game. The appearance of Gleich in the Kendallville lineup created quite a stir, the announcement of his release not having been made. At every turn at the plate he was given the glad hand, and the applause grew just a little bit stronger every time. Most of the fans are having a hard time figuring the why and wherefore of his release from the Central club. He certainly looked real yesterday. Three Giant pitchers were removed from the mound in the first game, none of them being effective. Finally it was announced that the game would be called at the end of the seventh. Bowman looked good all the time and only five hits were made off of him, Carr being responsible for two of these. The Lincoln Lives lacked the old punch in the second game and in that way lost the scrap. It seems that the appearance of the Reds always puts them on the friz and they kick the ball all over the lot. Oestermeier was pounded miserably in the third and he gave way to Lankenau, who got away somewhat better. The fielding of the locals was miserable and seven errors were chalked against them. Red Rabus had an awful time laying hands on the ball and Bud Devibiss couldn't make up his mind to play for enough back in left field to receive the offerings sent him. A homer was made when Henry sent one over his head and under the fence. Scores: First game—R.I.L.E. Kendallville 0 4 3 1 0 0-12 11 2; Giants 0 0 0 0 0 0-0 5 2. The Cause of Constipation.
Constipation is usually due to a lack of water in the excrement. To effect a cure you must take more water into the system. It may be months, however, before this has any appreciable effect on the bowels, but when persisted in and fruits and vegetables containing water are eaten freely, the condition may be overcome. In the meantime use the mildest laxatives obtainable and take only enough to produce the desired effect. Chamberlain's Tablets are one of the best. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect.—Advertisement.

MACHINE GUN MODERN ARM? NEVER!

COL DOOLEY EXPLAINING WORKINGS OF LEWIS MACHINE GUN

Tripod - Mounted Revolver, Firing "Round Bullets for the Christians and Square Missiles for Unspeakable Turks," Was Patented in England 199 Years Ago.

NEWSPAPERS of the country a few days ago chronicled in somewhat routine fashion that the machine gun strength of the proposed American armies is to be increased ten-fold.

This, perhaps, to the casual observer of the events of the world's greatest war, is a colorless detail, especially as compared to the spectacular aeroplane and submarine developments which appeal to the imagination of the average reader. But to the millions of Americans registered for draft, a considerable number of whom are most certain to see active service in France in the new infantry organizations, this terse War Department announcement bristles with significance. To those more fervid and aggressive patriots, this ten-fold multiplication of lead sprays pictures victorious assaults, to the more shrinking and cautious a beneficent protection, to all certainty of grim realities of war.

Probably no greater compliment could be paid to this arm of the service. And certainly no more propitious time could be found to pay it than in this, the 200th year since James Puckle of London took out his letters patent, after "at great expenses" having invented "a portable gun or machine called a defence, that discharges so often and so many bullets, and can be so quickly loaded, as renders it next to impossible to carry any ship by boarding."

Most citizens and many military men conceive of the machine gun as a modern invention. Not so. While from the invention of gunpowder some such machine was pictured, it, nevertheless, remained for Puckle to produce the revolver-tripod type of gun, as the prototype of the later Gatling, from which evolved the modern Maxim.

Whence comes the proof that "James Puckle, gent.," of London, just 200 years ago was at work in his little shop on the problems of a repeating gun? What are the successive steps which mark the picturesque development of this arm to its leadly efficiency of 1917?

The answer to the first question is supplied in the library of Hugh K. Wagner, St. Louis, a patent attorney, where a copy of the original English patent, granted July 28, 1718, contributes a minute description of Puckle's invention. The illustration of the Puckle gun shows a striking resemblance to the tripod and revolver chamber with crank that marks the Gatling type.

One's interest in the illustrations which Mr. Puckle furnished in obtaining his patent at once turns to the humane provisions the inventor had in mind in fighting civilized Christian nations, for which a nice, round bullet was provided, as against the square slug for the unspeakable Turk. The moralist will quickly call to mind the twentieth century mode of fighting, with its murder of women and babies on the seas, its gas bombs, its liquid fire, and other undreamed of methods of destruction of helpless noncombatants from the air, sea and land.

Rotating Chamber Piece. The records of the British patent office

describe the Puckle gun as follows:

The gun is a revolver mounted on a tripod. It has a single barrel and a rotating chamber piece, consisting of short cylinders fastened around a hollow center, which works on a horizontal pin attached to a barrel. Several sets of chamber pieces, each containing six or more chambers, may be used with the same barrel, so that as soon as all the charges of one set have been fired from one chamber piece, it is unscrewed from the fixed pin or axis on which it revolves and another chamber piece, ready charged, is put in its place. The shapes of the chambers and of the bullets may be varied, some "for shooting square bullets against Turks," others for shooting "round bullets against Christians."

Puckle called his gun "A Defence," and with an undisguised attempt to "carry favor with the crown, appended this couplet:

"Defending King George, your country and laws,

The text of the patentee's declaration, in Old English script, is as follows:

"Whereas, our Sovereign Lord, King George by his letters patents, bearing date the Fifteenth Day of May in the Fourth Year of His Majesty's reign, was graciously pleased to give and grant unto me, James Puckle of London, Gent., my executors, administrators and assigns the sole privilege and authority to make, exercise, work and use a portable gun or machine by me lately invented, called a Defence in that part of His Majesty's Kingdom of Great Britain called England, his Dominion of Wales, Town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and His Majesty's Kingdom of Ireland, in such manner and with such materials as should be ascertained to be the aforesaid new invention, by writing under my hand and seal enrolled in the High Court of Chancery within three calendar months of the date of the aforesaid patent as in and by his Majesty's letters patents, relation being thereunto had, doth and may amongst other things more fully and at large appear, NOW, I, the said James Puckle, do hereby Declare that the materials wherof of the aforesaid machine is made are steel, iron and brass and the tripod (tripod) whereon it stands, is wood and iron, and that in the above print (to which I hereby refer) the said gun or machine by me invented is delineated and described. July the 25th, 1718. (Signed) James Puckle."

Giving due credit to this Englishman of the early eighteenth century, Americans may read of the development of the machine gun with exceptional pride. For, while the machine gun appears to have taken a part in the Napoleonic wars, when fighting reached a new efficiency, all accounts point to its lethargic development and in instances a growing disfavor, for the next century and a half, or until the American civil war.

Then came Richard Jordan Gatling (1818-1903), and Sir Hiram Maxim, a Maine Yankee, for all his knighting in 1901; and Hotchkiss, whose gun the French army and navy adopted over all others, and the recent Lewis gun, the adoption of which by the British stirred a world-wide controversy, wherever Americans were concerned.

The Encyclopedia Britannica pays Gatling the tribute of pointing out his gun, used first by Grant in the late stages of the civil war, succeeded in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 and later European wars to the Spanish-American war in 1898, where its heavier calibers were fired alongside with the lighter Maxims then coming into general use.

The modern machine gun differs from its crude forbears by its firing mechanism, which uses either the gun recoil or the unused energy of exploding gases to fire and reload. The same authority names Sir Hiram Maxim as the first inventor to produce a finished automatic of practical value.

Of the machine guns used in the civil war, the Scientific American points out that twenty-five kinds testified to the inventive genius of the period, but only one survived the Gatling. In the Franco-German war machine guns, known as mitrailleurs, were employed, and, though crude, and so heavy that they had to be drawn by horses, they suggested the possibilities of the new kind of arm. But the menace of the newly invented torpedo boat in the 70s was the most potent stimulant to the development of the machine gun.

Maxim Not a Gunmaker.

The Gatling, which survived in general use during the 80s, consisted of six to ten barrels, grouped around a central shaft and turned by a crank handle, not unlike the Puckle type. It fed from a hopper, and could be loaded to fire at a certain point, or moved about on a swivel to "scatter fire." But it had innumerable objections, most of which have been done away with in the modern guns. It weighed too much—as high as 700 pounds, requiring four men to fire and eighteen men to take it into action. It jammed frequently, and as smokeless powder was unknown it would shortly create a smoke pall which obscured the sight of gunners and required rests while the smoke cleared. Originally of 1-inch caliber, firing a 34-ounce projectile, they later were made of rifle caliber, but could only fire 600 rounds a minute from ten barrels.

Then came the Hotchkiss gun, named after its American inventor, who established works at St. Denis, near Paris, and whose product shortly was adopted by all the first-class powers for the secondary batteries of ships. It was a five-barreled revolving gun of thirty-seven millimeters (1.45 inches) caliber, up to fifty-three millimeters, weighed 80 pounds and fired a projectile of from 1 to 6 pounds.

In quick succession came the Nordenföldt gun, adopted by the English army, and the Gardner type, of which, in 1882, the Admiralty ordered 25. It was this winter that Hiram Maxim, then living at a hotel in Paris became interested in the development of rapid-firers, and although he had never made a gun in his life, according to his own admission, he determined to enter the competition. So he went to England, where his experiences are told in his own words:

"The first problem for solution was to make an automatic machine gun using the service rifle ammunition, and when it was announced that an American mechanical engineer and electrician, having a small machine shop in Hatton Garden, had invented and made an automatic machine gun that would actually load and fire itself 600 times in a minute by energy derived from the recoil, very few were prepared to believe it, especially as the gun was said to have only one barrel. It was said to be all a bluff—a typical Yankee yarn."

However, when the late King Edward—then the prince of Wales—the duke of Edinburgh, the duke of Cambridge and the duke of Sutherland had visited my place and fired my little gun, it became the fashion for all the celebrities in London to visit my works and fire the gun. In this way over 200,000 rounds of service cartridge were used."

A short time later Maxim was instructed to take his gun to Hythe for a test before the late Lord Wolseley, and an interesting anecdote was the result. "The range was 600 yards and the target a very large cast-iron arrangement which really acted as a gun," wrote Maxim years afterward, in describing the incident. "At first a belt of 333 cartridges was attached to the gun. I pulled the trigger and the whole went off in half a minute."

"When, however, I ceased firing, the drumming on the gong-like target continued, and this very much puzzled the lordship. I explained to him that when I had ceased firing there were a considerable number of projectiles in the air, so that the noise continued until all the projectiles had reached the target and all the echoes had returned."

The Maxim gun immediately established itself. Its accuracy was vastly improved over the crank-firing system, which necessarily distorted the sight of the gunner. Through Lord Wolseley's influence, the gun was adopted in both branches of the English service. Wolseley then called on Maxim to produce a machine gun of effective range at 3000 yards that would shoot through the steel plates of ammunition wagons, and at the same time stop a mad rush at close quarters.

The Deadly "Pom-Pom."

Maxim's answer was a projectile throw-

quarters of an inch in diameter, 3 inches long, firing a heavy charge. This ferocious cartridge had another ingenious device, a muzzle attachment for the gun was provided, and when attached four steel cutters would groove the envelope so that by centrifugal force it would break up at close quarters and burst, very much like grape or canister.

The principal objection to this gun was that the gunner could not see the effect of his shooting, to correct his fire. Maxim remedied this by substituting a bursting charge of black powder. This gun made its bow in the South African war, in which it was the artillery surprise. It got its name from its bursting charges, which the natives referred to as "Pom Pom."

Maxim then went into competition with Armstrong, Hotchkiss and Nordenföldt to produce a gun for firing on torpedo boats. He scored another advanced step by devising an absorber to take up the terrific recoil of a gun firing a projectile 21 inches long, a very painful surprise to the gunner sighting the weapon.

That Maxim was at this time a keen student of chemistry, and that the laboratory contributed fully as much as the forge and machine shop to the development of the machine gun, is proven by the accounts of Maxim's invention of smokeless powder. Wolseley had objected to the great amount of smoke produced by the rapid firing. Maxim went to work, and his final contribution was a satisfactory mixture of pure tri-nitrocellulose (true gun cotton), with a small percentage of castor oil added to the solvents.

The discovery of French melinite, heralded as one of the greatest scientific discoveries, set Maxim to work to discover the secret.

"Upon one occasion," Maxim later related, "while I was visiting in France I took a party of French officers to lunch at the Cafe Anglais with one of my fellow-directors. Shortly after we were seated a very pompous gentleman entered and one of the officers stated that this gentleman had made a lot of money recently; he had been to England and had purchased for the French Government all the carbolic acid he could find. The officers told us of a remarkable new explosive that they had obtained. They said: 'It is very powerful, its disruptive effect is greater than dynamite. It is not affected by moisture or high temperature; it is very stable, it will not explode if thrown into a hot furnace, but burns away like resin; if placed on an anvil and struck with a sledge hammer, it will not go off; it may be loaded into projectiles and shot through armor plate without going off. If, however, it is properly confined in a strong receptacle and set off with a powerful detonator, its disruptive effects are simply immense.'"

"When the lunch was over my fellow-

director asked me if there was any connection between carbolic acid and high explosives. I told him that there was, that picric acid was used in the arts 200 years before it was known to be an explosive, that picric acid was tri-nitrophenol, phenol being carbolic acid.

"Twenty-four hours after this event I was back in England. I had picric acid in my laboratory and found that it would stand every test except one. If placed on an anvil and struck with a hammer it would detonate, but by mixing it with a small quantity of paraffin wax and 40-nitrobenzol, the compound would melt in boiling water and would not detonate by being struck with a hammer."

The secret became a general one shortly after, though in America several different kinds of "pics" were announced. Maxim's final important contribution to ordnance was the invention of the delayed action fuse. This was in 1887. Before that time it was impossible to get a charge of high explosives through an armor plate without exploding by the shock of impact before it passed through the armor plate; but by making the fuse a considerable distance from the detonator, Maxim was able to furnish the necessary delay, and the problem that puzzled artillerymen for so many years was solved forever in a very simple manner.

Now, as to the machine gun of today, which is these war times one's mind associates with machine gun nests, machine guns on torpedo destroyers, on submarines, on airplanes, tanks, armored motor cars and what not. That the machine gun has developed in the stimulus of war is admitted, but the improvement relatively is not marked. Its appreciation as an arm of both offense and defense has, however, shown tremendous strides in its wide application.

At the opening of the war the British Maxim, the French Hotchkiss and the American Colt automatic (very similar to the British gun) appeared supreme. As an infantry arm, firing a rifle cartridge, the following weapons, and their distinguishing characteristics, were in use by the various powers:

Maxim, British—Sighted to 2000 yards; weight 50 to 60 pounds; rate of discharge 450 rounds a minute; recoil. Hotchkiss, French—Sighted to 2000 yards; weight 35 pounds; discharge 600 to 600 rounds a minute; gas of cartridge utilized for firing.

The American Type.

Colt Automatic, American—Sighted to 2000 yards; weight 40 pounds; rate of discharge 400 rounds up; recoil. Schwarzlose—Manufactured at Steyr, Austria and adopted by Austria in 1907; simple construction, only ten working parts; weight 37.9 pounds; belt loader; life of 35,000 rounds.

Perno, Italian—Recoil; metal clip; adopted 1907.

Skoda, Japan and China—Hopper feed; operated by gas of cartridge.

Bergmann—Belt loader; gravity feed. The Maxim used in the British army service is of rifle caliber (303-1000ths inch), but precisely the same mechanism is embodied in guns of different calibers for other European nations, ranging from 6 millimeters to 11 millimeters. The rifle cartridge of 303-1000ths inch (7.7 millimeters) used in the army is adopted in order that the same bullets may be served out for rifle firing and for Maxim. The bullet weighs 215 grains and is made of lead cased in cupro-nickel.

The heavy Maxim guns, or "pom-poms," are used chiefly as naval weapons. They are of 37 millimeters caliber (1.45 inches) and fire about 300 rounds a minute, the shell weighing about 1 1/2 pounds. The guns are mounted in various ways for naval and for land services, the larger guns entailing some modifications. There are some 230 parts in a Maxim, and all are interchangeable. In all, about 500 separate machining operations are required, and 950 gauges used, while the "pom pom" 770 operations are performed by machine tools.

The newest, or Lewis gun, created an international stir when it was adopted by England, after American experts had tested it and returned a verdict of wanting.

It is of rifle caliber only, is very light, weighing only 25 1/2 pounds, and requires no mounting, being handled like a rifle. Yet it will fire from 400 to 700 rounds a minute, automatically, after the discharge of the first bullet.

Of course, from this weapon to Mr. Puckle's revolving gun is a far cry in the grim business of producing death-dealing arms, and Uncle Sam's enemy is well versed in their use. The decision of the American military authorities to increase its machine gun strength by tenfold, viewed both from offense and defense, is a measure which should render great confidence, both to the men of the new armies and those who must abide by the result back home.

RACIAL WAR
YET SERIOUS

Foreigners Warned to Leave.
A detachment of guardsmen were sent from Fort River to Bonhe Terre, but no further trouble occurred. Before dispersing the crowd gave notice to all foreigners that they must leave today or accept the consequences. All day yesterday the exodus of the foreign born continued and it is estimated that more than 1,000 have left the lead belt. Entire families boarded trains at every town, each person carrying a bundle.

Major William Stepp, commanding the state troops here, and two other officers went through the foreign colony and reported that they found about 200 homes, or former homes of foreign born miners had been pillaged and that women and children were without food. They also found that American born miners were buying cows and other property from the women at purely nominal prices.

Why Americans Object.
A committee of miners conferred with Major Stepp and his officers and in their deliberations the spokesman of the party said: "We want only a chance to go and support our families and not be thrown out for foreigners. Winter is coming on and the mining companies are discharging Americans to give their places to foreigners. We wish to turn no one, we have killed no one; we do not think any one has been hurt; we have destroyed no property. The mining companies are discharging Americans and it is against that which we protest."

A conference between the American miners and the mine owners is set for today and the leaders of the men have promised to observe a truce while negotiations toward a settlement are proceeding. If a compromise was not reached, William Rich, one of the leaders, said the miners would use other means.

MOBILIZING
THE GUARDS

divisional training camps. Full campaign equipment will be issued at the big camps, reducing the amount of material to be transported with the troops.

Supplies at divisions are being concentrated in the depots established in the south to feed the federal units. Rapid progress is being made in re-equipping guard regiments which have been in the federal service since the declaration of war, guarding property. This work will be taken over largely by civilian watchmen and many states already have taken over the guarding machinery which will free the guard regiments for war duty. Department commanders have been authorized to confer with state authorities in this regard and also to abandon the guarding of any point where they believe it is necessary to employ soldiers. It will be necessary to retain guardsmen for the protection of certain big munition works and other property vital to the conduct of the war.

NEW YORK MOBILIZING.

New York, July 16.—Nine regiments of infantry and three of artillery of the New York national guard assembled at their various depots today to become the sixth division of the United States army. Not since the days of the Spanish-American war has New York seen so many soldiers in the streets as this morning, when every avenue of transportation was crowded with khaki clad soldiers hurrying to answer the bugles sounding the call to battle for democracy.

The New York city units of the Sixth division are the 70th, 120th, 23rd, 69th and 21st infantry, the First, Second and Third field artillery and the 22nd engineers. The other regiments of the division are the First, Second, Third and Seventy-fourth infantry, all of which are up state organizations.

CARD OF THANKS

During the time of illness of our beloved husband and father, the friends in Fort Wayne assured us of their deep concern over the outcome; after his death the sympathy manifested by the public in general, spoke volumes of high esteem in which his memory was held. We now desire to express our appreciation of the many kindnesses and marks of affection. To those who so willingly rendered services at the funeral, the minister, the singers and the fraternal orders for their consolation in words and song, to the Bowser employees and those who acted in other capacities, and to the many friends for the beautiful floral tributes we wish especially to express our thanks. You shall always be held in our highest esteem.

MICHAELIS TO

speech in the reichstag Thursday. The address is expected to contain an announcement of his forthcoming program and is awaited with a great deal of interest.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, who were summoned to Berlin by Emperor William, are continuing their conference with party leaders. Dr. Michaelis is participating in them.

Representatives of the Berlin press were received Saturday by General Ludendorff, who discussed the military situation. He said the situation on all fronts was favorable.

The pan-German independent league met and adopted a resolution to protest against the proposed peace action of the reichstag majority, declaring the adoption of the majority program would result in the indefinite continuance of the war and the political and economic ruin of the Germans.

Dr. Michaelis is father of a family of a size encouraged by Emperor William. He had six children but one son has been killed in the war. Two daughters are engaged in public welfare work and the third daughter is in charge of a soldiers' convalescent home.

SAYS AUSTRIA SHOULD QUIT.

Zurich, July 16.—The Austrian reichsrat was thrown into an uproar on Saturday when the former Czech minister, Herr Praschek, declared the hate of the entire world was not directed against Austria, but against Germany, and that Austria should detach herself from her ally, says a Vienna dispatch.

"How are we to obtain peace?" demanded Herr Praschek. "If we cling to the German side? Must we continue to sacrifice our interests to the expansion of Germany? Must we continue to submit to the German militarism that has drawn us into this war?"

The speaker declared that Czech deputies had been imprisoned for attempting to bring about an alliance of Austria with Russia and France, and added that if they were to be stigmatized as traitors then all Czechs who believed similarly should be so stigmatized.

STAND BY PEACE TERMS.

Amsterdam, July 16.—According to the Berliner Tagblatt the reichstag party leaders after they had been received by Marshal Hindenburg and Gen. Ludendorff held a conference in the reichstag building and decided to maintain the terms of peace resolutions agreed on before the interview.

In California, for instance, the governor would receive his copy from any exemption board four or five days before the mail would bring to Washington a copy for the protest marshal general. The governor would report to the protest marshal general only when every district in his state had been heard from.

extensive concert tour in Austria when the war broke out and was on his way to that country, but unable to reach it. The vessel he was on was taken by the English and he with several other passengers were interned at Melbourne. Upon his release he came to America. Prof. Kafka has a reputation throughout Europe as one of the master violinists of that country.

Frederick Persson, the pianist of this orchestra, was in Vienna pursuing musical studies at the outbreak of the war and along with thousands of other Americans he found it wise to try to get away from Vienna and finally succeeded in reaching Paris. He arrived there at the time when the Germans were only thirty miles away and the sound of the cannon could be easily heard. Luckily, he made the acquaintance of an American millionaire, who cashed his checks, which enabled him to return to New York.

Miss Anna Slack, cellist, is recognized among the foremost lady cellists of this country, is a graduate of the American Conservatory of Music, which school is rated among the oldest and best in this country. Miss Slack won the gold medal for department and merit in the class of 1916 and is the first person to receive this honor from this college. The cello she uses was made in England in 1665 and played by Prof. Whitehead, who toured with the famous Jennie Lind. This cello is valued at $1,000 and critics pronounce the tone quality perfect. Miss Slack is also a noted composer.

S. Hoyt Mosher, clarinetist, was for six years with the famous Kyril band, also has been soloist with the New York Symphony orchestra. Victor Mosher's orchestra, and the leading bands of the country. Mr. Mosher is a noted composer and in the afternoon one of his compositions will be rendered, "Gavotte," by a trio composed of the piano, violin and cello. And in the evening the orchestra will play another one of his compositions, the famous "Mosher March."

Theodore Wohlschlag, cornetist and manager of the orchestra, is a student of the great bandmaster, Kyril, and has been associated with some of the biggest bandmasters of the country.

Joseph Kalabaz, trap drummer and xylophonist, will render two xylophon solos during the afternoon concert. Mr. Kalabaz's father was violin soloist with the old Theodore Thomas Symphony orchestra of Chicago.

Tomorrow night this orchestra will render the prelude previous to Dr. Hardin's famous patriotic lecture on "America and the World of Tomorrow."

CORN PRICES ADVANCE WITH LIGHT RECEIPTS

Other Prices Stick Tight But Receipts Are No Better Than Before.

With receipts in corn as light as they have been for the last few weeks, an advance has been expected for some time. By going up a cent or two at a time the grain went from $1.50 to $1.70 last week, and on Monday morning hit $1.74 1/2 per bushel. Only two loads were brought in but it has been several weeks since many more than that have been offered.

All other receipts continued to be light but no changes in prices were made. Three loads of hay were weighed at the city scales and three loads of oats, the former selling at $12.00 per ton, while the oats brought 70c a bushel.

POOR WEATHER PUTS
CORN RATING HIGH

Prices Mount Some on the Board, But Peace Talk Hinders Bulls.

Chicago, July 16.—Corn prices averaged higher today, influenced by weather conditions unfavorable to growth. On the other hand continued peace talk hindered aggressiveness on the part of bulls. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as Saturday's finish to 3/4¢ higher, with September at 11.93¢ to 11.90¢, and December at 11.24¢ to 11.23¢, were followed by a material advance all around and then a reaction that wiped out most of the gains.

Assumptions that wheat will be brought under absolute government control kept trade in that cereal at a minimum, with prices showing no great change. First transactions varied from 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ decline, with July at $2.05 and September at $1.95. Promising field advice made oats relatively weak.

Selling of hard on part of Saturday's leading buyers weakened all of the provision list.
